PLAN TO STOP LEGAL HOLES OF AID TO WEALTHY

Government Losing Millions Of Dollars Through Uncollected Taxes

By WM. K. HUTCHINSON
For International News Service.
WASHINGTON, March 26.—A complete revision of the "million-dollar" class of federal estate taxes will be proposed in the next Congress as a result of the Couzens senatorial investigation of the internal revenue bureau, it was learned today.

Evolution of existing taxes by millionaires and near millionaires through the distribution of their wealth before death, Couzens said, has made a "joke" out of the present statute.

The proposed revision will revolve around the tightening of all loopholes in the existing law and the creation of new safeguards to stamp out all evasions of the tax.

With the leaks blocked, it was indicated, some slight reductions in present rates might be allowed.

Evidence revealed by the Couzens investigation, it was said, has shown that the government lost millions of dollars in uncollected taxes from the estates of millionaires, who made elaborate gifts before death. The gifts were covered by so great a litter of technicalities that all efforts of the government to enforce the supposedly safeguarding gift taxes failed.

Against Government

"It seems that all the contested estate tax cases were decided against the government through technicalities," said Senator Couzens, in explaining the government's losses. "In most of the cases, in which the bureau and the committee believed a tax should be paid, the evidence indicated a transfer of property just before the taxpayer's death. In many instances, it was even shown that this act was done in anticipation of death yet the courts decided otherwise.

Revision Endorsed

Senator Couzens is expected to take the lead in proposing revision of the law in a report to be submitted from his committee. He will be joined in fighting for the revision, however, by progressive leaders of both major parties.

The proposed revision was endorsed today by Senator King, Democrat of Utah, and Senator Norris, Republican of Nebraska.

He indicated sufficient votes would be obtained to enact the remedies in both branches of the new Congress.

Evasions of the estate tax law have made a joke out of the present statute," said King. "I heartily endorse a revision of the existing law."

Public School Religious Bill In Legislature

SACRAMENTO, March 26.—By a vote of 49 to 25, the Assembly of the California Legislature this noon voted to bring out of the committee Assemblywoman Eleanor Miller's bill providing for periods of study for religious education in the public schools of California.

Elder W. F. Martin of Glendale, representing the Seventh-day Adventist organization, spoke against the bill in committee. He succeeded in causing satisfactory amendments to be made, creating a commission to oversee private colleges and academies. The Adventists feared the bill would militate against their courses of study.

MORE DEATHS ARE LAID TO 'TYPHOID'

Exhumation Of Bodies Of McClintock's Mother, Doctor Asked

BULLETIN
CHICAGO, March 26.—The bodies of Mrs. Mary McClintock, mother of Billy McClintock, and Dr. Oscar Olson will be exhumed from their old graves tomorrow to furnish gruesome evidence in the trial of William D. Shepherd for the murder of McClintock, whose will made him a millionaire.

An order for opening the graves was given this afternoon by Corner Oscar Wolff, on petition of the state's attorney's office.

CHICAGO, March 26.—Exhumation of the bodies of Mrs. William McClintock, mother of "Billy" McClintock, and Dr. Oscar Olson, brother of Judge Harry Olson, chief instigator of the McClintock death probe, was to be sought by the state today in an effort to gather further evidence of the alleged seventeen years conspiracy which they declare culminated in the "typhoid murder" of Billy.

The petition for such an order already has been drawn up, International News learned today, and, according to the state's program, will be presented in circuit court before noon.

It states that both deaths occurred under "peculiar circumstances" which in the light of recent developments, warrant post-mortem examinations.

Meanwhile Attorney William S. Stewart, Shepherd's counsel, was arranging for a conference with State's Attorney Robert Crowe to decide on an early trial date. Stewart also declared he would petition the court for a review of the bail motion, the denial of which yesterday resulted in the commitment of Shepherd to jail pending trial.

Suspensions Aroused

Mrs. McClintock died after having spent some time with the Shepherds in Texas and Dr. Olson's death, according to his brother, occurred a short time after Shepherd had visited him and given him some fruit. The judge has repeatedly referred to both deaths as part of what he has termed Shepherd's seventeen years' conspiracy to obtain the McClintock fortune.

Jail officials said Shepherd had made no comment since the decision of the court late yesterday which denied him freedom on bail pending his trial for the murder of William McClintock, his foster son, for which he and Dr. Charles C. Faiman stand indicted.

A speedy trial, the court held, was all that could be offered the defense.

JAZZ GIRL IN DEAD FAINT AGAIN AT HEARING

Goes Into Complete Collapse When Morning Session Of Court Closes

By ELLIS H. MARTIN
For International News Service.
SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—Falling again into a dead faint as she rose from her chair, Dorothy Ellington, 16-year-old girl on trial for the murder of her mother, again went into a state of complete collapse at the close of the morning session of the fourth day of her trial.

Heaving of her bosom and twitching of her hands betrayed the high state of her nervous tension a few minutes before time for court to adjourn.

The girl rose weakly from her chair with a deputy sheriff on one side and the court bailiff on the other. She took a step or two, her chin quivered, her knees weakened and she sank limply into the arms of those who surrounded her. Her consciousness fled completely with every vestige of color from her face and her head hung limp on her shoulders as she was again carried into the jury room.

The girl quickly revived in a few minutes and was able to be led with faltering steps across the "bridge of sighs" to the jail infirmary. Her father and brother, deeply anxious over her state, were denied admittance to the jury room during her fainting but were later permitted to go to her side in the jail.

Medical Attention

It was regarded as probable in view of her fourth complete breakdown in as many days that some steps would be taken by her attorneys to secure medical attendance upon her during the court sessions.

Some indication of the terrific battle waged by the girl to regain control over herself was given by the fact that she pulled in two a heavy leather handle to a pocket-book which she carried daily to the trial.

Heavy eyed, pasty faced and drooping in figure, Dorothy Ellington entered upon the fourth day of her trial.

Despite the exercise of another jury challenge by the defense to remove a woman from the jury box there were still three women on the tentative jury when the noon adjournment was taken. The defense had exhausted fourteen of its peremptory challenges and the state four. The state expected to call for a fifth.

Senate Hears Argument On Six-State Pact

SACRAMENTO, March 26.—With Mark Requa, San Francisco, personal representative of Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, leading opposition to the Finney assembly resolution ratifying the six-state Colorado river compact, the Senate committee on federal relations continued hearing arguments this afternoon.

Senator A. Burlingame Johnson, Pasadena, has a resolution, without reservations, of Imperial valley rights, which he would substitute as a favor to Hoover.

This is fought by Senator Ralph Swing, San Bernardino, and Senator Chester Kline, Riverside.

This morning's hearing was in the private chamber of Senator Arthur Breed, president pro tem of the Senate. Swing charges the opposition is stalling for time.

AIRCRAFT EVADES FLEET'S BIG GUNS

Floating Targets Dodge 880 Shots From Guns In L. A. Harbor

LOS ANGELES, March 26.—Shot-riddled targets today littered Los Angeles harbor where they were checked and re-checked by gunnery officers of vessels of the United States fleet to determine the result of yesterday's force firing practice, participated in by eleven dreadnaughts and three squadrons of destroyers and forty airplanes.

For behind the breath-taking spectacle of the discharge of seven 16-gun salvos from the main batteries, 76-gun salvos from the five-inch broadsides and the shrapnel barrage of anti-aircraft guns was the serious intent of demonstrating the ability of this mighty effort to defend itself against any possible enemy.

The result of the big gun firing is a navy secret. However, airplanes demonstrated their efficiency when the fire of 880 shots from the anti-aircraft guns failed to hit a single "sleeve" target, towed by each of the sixteen planes that engaged in the practice.

The efficiency of the fighting fleet's personnel was demonstrated by the fact that there were no casualties.

BOY, HEIR TO MILLIONS, IS HAPPY AS LABORER

Fowler McCormick, Heaving Iron Bars All Day, Earns $21 Per Week

By SARAH BROWN
For International News Service.
MILWAUKEE, March 26.—A boy who was born with a silver almost one might say, a gold spoon in his mouth is swinging from bars for nine hours a day and $21 a week in a factory here—and he likes it.

He is Fowler McCormick, son of Harold McCormick, International Harvester magnate, and Edith Rockefeller McCormick, born and reared in the atmosphere of millions.

But today, he hurried down the walk from his $4 a week rooming house, to gobble a workingman's breakfast at a nearby restaurant and he summed up his views of the change with:

"Gee, I'm having the time of my life."

The chap who has had his own cars and hosts of servants now rises at 5 a.m. His cheeks are rosy and he walks with a jaunty air.

"That factory has certainly conditioned me," he said today. "I wish I had time to do a little boxing now. I used to do it some but I bet I could almost lick myself after heaving those iron rods all day. I'm getting hard that's what—hard."

"This isn't just a stunt either. I'm not going to quit. I'm going to stick at it and work here for the job until they think I deserve a better one."

"Mrs. Stillman, the mother of James Stillman, my best friend at Princeton, was the one who thought of this and urged me to it."

"And right here I want to straighten out any rumors about my being in love with her. There isn't any sort of a romance between us. She is a wonderful person and she has been mighty nice to me—sort of a godmother, you might say. She came up here to see me just to find out how I was getting along. Let me tell you, if I was in love with her or anyone else, I wouldn't get so far out of the running. I'd stay right in Chicago where I could keep in touch with things."

Time Clock Worries

We were standing in front of the International Harvester plant by now and the boy, whose father virtually owns the entire organization, glanced nervously at his watch. Being late, he explained, means a cut in pay, and he wanted to be sure to punch the time clock within a margin of safety.

His identity at the plant had been concealed under the friendly "Mac" by which fellow workers knew him until the visit of Mrs. Pitt Potter Stillman yesterday.

She met him as he came out of work and they had dinner together.

"But the poor boy was so tired and sleepy, he could hardly keep awake," she said today. "I wanted to see him, though and felt I could not go on west without saying hello to him."

GASOLINE BILL AUTHOR IS ALTERING PROGRAM

Senator Breed Now Says Submission Of Budget Would Be Mistake

BULLETIN
SACRAMENTO, March 26.—The biennial budget bill was adopted by unanimous vote in the Senate today. It appropriates $118,000,000 for the next two years, not counting the funds for the highways, which are not yet budgeted, and which the administration refuses to permit budgeting.

SACRAMENTO, March 26.—Senator Arthur H. Breed, author of the 3-cent gasoline tax bill, today came out strongly against his previously announced policy of having the State Highway commission submit a budget detailing the roads to be built during the coming two years.

Breed's statement declared that he now believes such procedure "would be a mistake," resulting in a "scrambling, pulling and hauling for inclusion of particular roads."

He said further: "Up to yesterday I was in favor of requesting the highway commission to prepare a budget showing the roads to be improved during the next biennium and allocating money to such roads by the Legislature."

Breed's action was considered by many legislators as sounding the death knell of the gas tax.

The text of Breed's statement follows:

"After a meeting with the San Francisco delegation in the Legislature, members of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors and others, I now frankly admit that such a procedure would be a mistake. If that procedure were to be adopted, it would be a scrambling, pulling and hauling for inclusion of particular roads. That procedure might lead to the extent of twenty-one senators or forty-one assemblymen making a partition of funds among their favorite roads to the exclusion of those of the minority."

"From the experience I have just had concerning this subject, I believe we should leave the matter of selecting roads to be first improved to the highway commission. They are familiar with traffic and the needs of every road. Our big problem at this session is to raise money so new construction may continue. The gas tax increase of 1 cent per gallon is the logical and equitable method. The opposition of the big oil companies must not be allowed to stop California's progress."

A. Lapham Advocates Miss Kern's Candidacy

Editor The Evening News:— Since becoming personally interested in the candidacy of Miss Ruth Kern for city treasurer, a number of letters from various prominent people in Glendale have come under my observation, and I think the public should know how they stand on this issue.

The following is an excerpt from a letter addressed to Miss Kern and signed by A. H. Lapham:

"I am fully aware of the splendid work that you have done at the City Hall in your present position. I intend to vote for you and if I didn't believe that you were fully competent and capable of handling the position, I would tell you so frankly. The fact that you are a woman should not militate against you in the least. If the people of Texas and Wyoming in their wisdom can select a woman for governor, there is no reason why Glendale should not elect a woman for city treasurer."

This is only one of the many instances of the full recognition of Miss Kern's services in the past, and I feel sure that if the general public knew that people of the type of Mr. Lapham and others, who have had business dealings through this office, are recommending her so strongly, it would in itself bear a very hearty endorsement of her as a candidate for this office.

Yours very truly,
A. L. BAIRD.

Election
April 14, 1925

I feel that the people of Glendale whom I am seeking to serve as councilman should know something of my ability, past record and experience in municipal affairs and am pleased to publish herewith an unsolicited letter from Hon. Harry H. Parsons, president of the Montana Bar association of Missoula, Montana, a city I served as mayor from 1912 to 1914:

V. L. MCCARTHY, Helena.
LEW L. CALLAWAY, Great Falls.
HARRY L. WILSON, Billings.
JESSE B. ROOTE, Butte.
HENRY C. SMITH, Helena.
E. D. CHEADLE, Lewistown.

My Dear Rhoades: Someone addressed to me one of your local papers containing the announcement of your candidacy for City Commissioner of Glendale for the approaching April election. I hope to congratulate the good, forward moving people of that city on the prospect of your election; and I wish only that I might be there to do something substantial and practical by way of campaigning in your behalf—and particularly acquainted them with what you did as Mayor of this City and the incomparable advertisement and publicity—state and nationwide—that you gave to its virtues, resources and possibilities.

To say that I wish you success and the citizenry of your home the benefit of your vigorous, painstaking and enthusiastic campaigning throughout this continent, goes without saying. Missoula has missed you much and greatly. In your short regime as Mayor, Missoula was put upon the national map, and had we had predecessors and successors who had the intelligence, the unceasing zeal and the knowledge of how and when and where to do things, Missoula would unquestionably be larger, more prosperous and more stable than it is today.

All of our people wish you well, and the people "weller" by a grand success in your election.

Yours sincerely,
(Signed) HARRY H. PARSONS.

Postal Delivery Gets Boost For Extension

Recommendation to Washington advocating the extension of city delivery service to approximately four miles of streets in the Glendale postal district was made today by Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson, following an inspection tour of rural delivery routes yesterday by the postmaster, George Hallett, his assistant, and Superintendent of Mails Walker.

Extension of city service to approximately 25 streets, most of them in the Grand View district, was recommended as a result of the survey. Portions of Rossmore and Glendale Heights were also included in the recommendations. It will be several months before final action is expected on the recommendations made today. Other requests for extension of service are now pending before the postal authorities at Washington, Mr. Hallett said.

AT LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, March 26.—Newspaper has the La Crescenta school auditorium presented such an enticing appearance as last evening when two hundred guests assembled to do justice to the feast set by Verdugo Hills Post, No. 22, of the American Legion.

Long tables filled the hall, vases of purple and white iris decorated each table, while the speakers' table was decorated with birthday candles set in large red roses. American Legion pennants and streamers of red, white and blue were hung from chandeliers and walls. Mrs. R. Peck assisted Mesdames Anna Aiken, J. Key, S. B. Young and J. A. Rogers. The dinner of mint julep in grape fruit, perfection salad, roast leg of lamb, mint sauce, green peas, mashed potatoes, ice cream and French pastries with the post number on top in the Legion colors of blue and gold.

The program was opened by the salute to the flag by all singing "The Star Spangled Banner." E. Nuzum made the presentation speech when he gave to Past Commander Sullivan a past commander's ring. A few appropriate words from Legionnaire Sullivan showed his appreciation. E. Rodene imitated the feathered whistlers of the woods realistically. Mrs. Guy Carlton of Sparr Heights, who has a charming voice, sang two solos; Don Clapman, popular Legionnaire, gave a short, witty speech; Commander R. Quinn seemed slow getting into the meat of his talk he finished in a smashing climax. His talk embraced the ideals of Legiondom, of the great work to be done for the benefit of the widows and orphans through the endowment fund now being raised and a plea for the splendid work done by the Legionnaires throughout the country to continue.

From Glendale auxiliary came Mrs. Gilliland with a message of the work being done there. Mrs. Gilliland, who is a charming speaker, extended congratulations to the local post and its auxiliary for the work accomplished to date. She also had a message on the endowment fund telling what the movement meant and would mean to the little tots in the years to come. Mrs. Gilliland was followed by her husband, commander of the Glendale post, who assured the local post of his intention to be present at the third annual mess call next year. Julia Pelley of Glendale gave a colorful Spanish dance.

Earl Brown of La Crescenta, accompanied by his wife who has charge of the school orchestra, sang "Grey Days." Dr. Lincoln Wirt, the first white man who ever crossed the Alaskan plains, spoke next. His mission was similar to the one lately performed by the Indians who carried serum to the stricken at Nome. Dr. Wirt carried out to the world the message of the great typhoid fever plague which then was sweeping the northern country. Dr. Wirt also was in Pekin at the time of the Boxer outbreak. He began his talk with humorous anecdotes swinging into the serious as he touched on his present life work, "Prevention of War."

"The last war," he said, "was fought to make the world safe for humanity. It was fought to think in terms of war. Has the time not come for the great nations of the earth to be able to settle their differences at a round table of peace where the questions could be settled without resorting to the blood of the battlefields?"

To illustrate the horrors of war Dr. Wirt read from a newspaper clipping describing the 25,000 war victims who marched through Paris on a recent anniversary of the Armistice.

To illustrate the growth of nations in a common cause the speaker told of the Honolulu street traffic being directed by a group of Chinese boys led by a Chinese student in the school, and placed at the dangerous crossings to save the children were an American, a Portuguese, an Hawaiian and a Japanese, showing how the races could work together for the good of a common cause.

Dr. Wirt gave graphic descriptions of his visits to the great war cemeteries of Europe. He said with the exception of the American graves all were in a state of utter neglect. Dr. Wirt's great plea was for the abolishment of war by arbitration. He asked that President Coolidge be upheld in his plea for a world court, where America could take her place with dignity befitting her position in the world of today.

Adjutant Ben Wirt of the local post was chairman of the arrangements and is to be congratulated on the splendid dinner and the program and Commander A. E. Baron expressed pleasure at the success of the affair.

Miss Julia Pelley concluded the program with an East India dance followed by dancing of those assembled to the music of the Verdugo Hills orchestra, who donated their services. Pupils of Miss Margaret will appear in concert recital tomorrow at the La Crescenta school auditorium. These recitals are one of the so-

WE OFTEN WONDER—

What a collection plate thinks as it goes down a pew.
Why scandal runs while truth must crawl,
If governments ever will be run by the few for the many.
Why God's patience never runs out.
Who pays the most—the prodigal or his mother.
Why we allow unanswerable questions to rob us of the joy of evident good.

SPEED MADNESS

Once in a while some old-fashioned soul cries out to the world, "Slow up. You are going too fast. Danger ahead." But we laugh uproariously as we speed along and cast scornful glances at the old fogey as we pass him. We excuse our speed on the ground that this is an age of progress and we must go fast to keep up. But the old fellow is right. We need not go back to the habits and customs of the dark ages or even to the time of our parents, but we could very profitably slow up a little in a good many ways. Time waits for no man, but he who races with it ends up further from the goal than the one who takes life more calmly. "A short life and a merry one" may have a pleasant sound for youth, but a "long life and a happy one" is better in reality.

Speed is the motif of the age, and it is speed that is to blame for much of the tragedy and the crime today. Not only because fast driving of automobiles is the cause of accidents, but in the sense that fast living makes people ruthless to the point of running over others in an effort to accomplish their purpose, whatever it may be. Speed makes courtesy obsolete. The rights of others are not to be considered when they stand in the way of our own ambition.

Consider the traffic situation at the intersection of any important street or boulevard. Autos speed along as if delay would be fatal. Motor cars and pedestrians on the cross street are darting and worming their way through the traffic at the risk of life and limb. If a driver stops, the one behind him darts around at the risk of crashing into another car or striking a pedestrian. When something stops the traffic for a moment there begins the raucous noise of horns and the screeching of sirens. This noise means, "Hurry, hurry, hurry. Get out of my way. There isn't a moment to spare."

This situation as it exists at many street intersections is merely a picture of life today—speed and noise are paramount. If anyone gets in our way we either run over him or make a tremendous fuss about it. The world is out after pleasure and luxury—the things that money can buy, and we must hurry to get the coin in order to keep up with the procession. We must be in a position to step on the gas, pass everyone on the road and run down all the stray animals that cross our path.

Speed mania is responsible for many accidents on the road and likewise moral speed madness is the cause of much of the tragedy of life. We are merciless when, in our rush for riches and pleasure and high position, our fellowmen get in our way.

There is the one who must have easy money. Earning it is too slow. So he runs over the man who gets his wealth honestly, breaking into his home or store or holding him up on the street. The murderer "bumps off" the one who gets in his way.

There are men and women who hog the road to the extent of crowding off those who have a better right there. These so-called vamps and sheiks who are habitués of the divorce courts have no regard for the rights of wives, husbands and children. The forger thinks to realize his ambition quickly by cutting corners, no matter who may be hurt. The swindler steals the right of way. The bootlegger and all his ilk drive at night at terrific speed and without lights, menacing all who have any dealings with him. He must get rich at the expense of being an outlaw and an outcast, even though he murder men, body and soul.

The man who is so old-fashioned as to think his brain should be used for serious contemplation may find himself the victim of the driver who fails to give signals, the get-rich-quick artist. The old and faithful employee, near-sighted and no longer able to adapt himself to changing conditions, is run down by the juggernaut of progress. The one who tries to slow up and live more sensibly finds all eyes upon him. He is the butt of ridicule. A myriad horns are honking at him, telling him to go on or get out of the way.

The speeder misses the best part of life. There are wonderful views and vistas along the way, but his eyes are glued to the road as he "burns it up." His brakes are rusted for want of use and there is great danger that he will come to the edge of the precipice so quickly that he cannot stop.

Going more slowly, we avoid the dangerous curves, the precipitous descents, the reckless drivers. We have a chance to enjoy the view and we know we are going in the right direction, for we are guided by the road signs. Wherever we think we are going, we might as well enjoy the trip, and when we use reason and caution in driving, not only will the journey be more pleasant, but the destination more appreciated.

OBSOLETE MAPS

The National Geographic society and a Washington newspaper have made the discovery that 40,000 obsolete geographies are being used in the schools of Washington, D. C. These books were printed before the map of Europe was changed by the world war. The chances are that many old maps are being used in schools throughout the country to supply information that is erroneous as far as Europe is concerned.

Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic society, hopes that this discovery will have the effect of increasing interest in geography in schools. He says: "The failure to teach geography in high schools is one of the anomalies of American school education. Geography is a basic subject, it enters into history, science, literature and even the languages. It is a cultural subject of abiding interest and life-long intellectual fascination. It is a vocational adjunct to many kinds of business and professions."

WHERE ARE THE GUMPS?

Sidney Smith is attempting to "put one over" on us. He is telling us that Andy and Min Gump are in Southern California and has pictured them in Los Angeles, Pasadena, Coronado, Tia Juana and so forth, while in papers in all other parts of the country they are reported to be at Palm Beach. Once in a while the plates get mixed and we who were puffed with pride at the thought of such distinguished people in our midst get a rude jolt when we learn they are really in Florida. This is another warning to us that Florida is becoming a rival of California and that we must look well to our defenses. Chambers of Commerce of Southern California should combine in an effort to learn just where this eminent statesman and financier and his charming wife are sojourning.

It might be worse. Suppose the fly and the mosquito had the same working hours.

THE FLOWERS THAT BLOOM IN THE SPRING, TRA-LA!

Uneven Bricks

By DR. FRANK CRANE

It is essential that a road should have a smooth surface.

A brick sticking up or a brick sticking down is equally faulty.

Bricks that sink below the surface are called "thank-ee marm's." Bricks that stick up are called "asses' backs"—dos d'an.

Those whose individuality is pronounced are the bricks that stick up. They cause a good deal of trouble in the world, sometimes unnecessary and sometimes helpful.

And the contrary, there are people who seem to have no individuality. They are mere depressions. It is as annoying to meet these people as to meet those whose personality is pronounced.

It was said of McKinley that he was agreeable to everybody and his main capacity was for getting along smoothly with all classes.

On the contrary, President Wilson was a brick that stuck out. He had too much individuality.

A girl is popular when she presents a uniform surface. She must not know more than a man, nor be richer than her husband, nor smarter than those around her. If she is, she arouses the inferiority complex. She may be envied, but she will not be liked.

In one of the recent musical comedies a business woman wanted to succeed in society. She wondered why she was not more popular among the men. She had taught this man to play golf and that man to play chess, and helped people generally. Her grandmother told her that she must not have the air of knowing more than a man. If she confined her remarks to three—"Yes," "No," and "Aren't you wonderful!"—she would get along much better. In fact she would have them eating out of her hand before a week was over.

She adopted her grandmother's advice and the results were satisfactory. Every man thought she was a remarkable girl because she could say "Yes," "No," so charmingly.

It behooves most of us to conform in most things. A man wears a suit of clothes like other men, not because he has no personality, but because he does not want to quarrel over the question. It is not worth while.

He saves his energy to concentrate upon more important subjects than clothes. Hence he is well dressed in the sense of being dressed like everybody else.

Of course there are times when a man must express his own opinions and stand by his principles, but one should not be too pronounced unless he has made sure that it is all worth while. Most things are not worth quarreling about. It is better to let them go than to raise an issue.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

You need only to go through the newspapers to become familiar with the fact that the world is anxious to learn every little circumstance that happened to make any figure in it, such as all the trifles about how he eats, drinks, sleeps, his general habits and manners. It appears that people are more curious about these details than to know what good or bad qualities they may possess.

Yet such information always fails to give us a true picture of the individual. To judge men correctly, it is necessary to take them where events have thrown them; we must penetrate deeply into their actions, whether good or bad, and assure ourselves if it were not impossible for them to do otherwise than they did.

Napoleon opined that great men are like meteors which shine and consume themselves to enlighten the earth.

Whose remarks about men could be more interesting than Napoleon's? In his writings you will find these sprightly observations:

"Great men are those who can control both good luck and fortune."

"Many a one commits some reprehensible action who is perfectly honorable, because a man seldom acquires a natural impulse but from some secret passion of the moment which lies hidden and concealed within the narrowest folds of the heart."

"There are two levers by which men may be moved—fear and interest."

"Pride never listens to the voice of reason, nature or religion."

"We should always go before our enemies with confidence, otherwise our apparent uneasiness inspires them with greater boldness."

"Friendship is but a name. I love no one—no, not even my own brothers. Joseph perhaps, a little; and if I do love him, it is from habit, and because he is my elder."

Duroc? Ah yes! I love him too! But why? His character pleases me; he is cold, reserved, and resolute; and I really believe he never shed a tear. As to myself, it is all one to me; I know well that I have not one true friend."

As long as I continue what I am, I may have as many friends as I please. . . . We must leave sensibility to the women; it is their business. But men should be firm in heart and in purpose, or they should have nothing to do with war or government."

"There are men who have sufficient strength of mind to change their character or to bend to imperative circumstances."

"The heart of a minister (of state) should be nowhere but in his head."

It is particularly interesting to know that Napoleon was the author of this:

"A great reputation is a great noise; the more there is of it, the farther off it is heard. Laws, institutions, monuments, nations—perish; but the noise continues, and resounds in after generations."

He served on the battleship Minneapolis in 1898, and on the Texas 1902-5; at the United States Naval Academy 1905-7, and was executive officer on the Olympia in 1907. The following year Admiral Nulton served as ordnance officer and navigator on the Panther and was then ordnance officer on the Ohio. During the next two years he served on the Wisconsin as executive officer and the three years following, 1910-13, he was stationed at the U. S. Naval Academy, being transferred to the Naval War College at Newport, R. I., in 1913.

That same year he was made commander of the Nashville, followed by two years on the Montana.

Admiral Nulton participated in the Cuban, Philippine, and Boxer (China) campaigns and was at Vera Cruz in 1914. In 1918 he commanded the Pennsylvania, flagship of the Atlantic fleet. He is a member of the U. S. Naval Institute (board of control). He was given commendatory letters from the department of state for work done in diplomatic-naval service in Haiti and San Domingo.

ADIEU, ADIEU! MY NATIVE SHORE
Adieu, adieu! my native shore
Fades o'er the waters blue;
The night winds sigh, the breakers roar,
And shrieks the wild sea-mew,
Yon sun that sets upon the sea
We follow in his flight;
Farewell awhile to him and thee,
My native land—Good Night!

A few short hours, and he will rise
To give the morrow birth;
And I shall hail the main and thee,
My dog, howls at the gate.

TRAFFIC TOLL REDUCTION SOUGHT

Strict Enforcement Of Laws Found Best Method To Lower Fatalities

By ROBERT S. THORNBURG
For International News Service.
WASHINGTON, March 26.—
Conservation of human life—probably held in more careless regard in America than any other nation—is the prime objective of a nation-wide movement launched by the national conference on street and highway safety.

The conference, headed by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, after more than a year's study of traffic conditions, announced that rigid enforcement of traffic laws will do more than anything else to reduce the automobile accident and death rate.

PARKING SIGNS TO WARN ALL MOTORISTS

Southern California Auto
Club Covering Traffic
Center Of L. A.

Violations of the parking law in the central traffic district of Los Angeles will be unpardonable after the new permanent metal signs now being installed are all up. These warnings are being placed on steel posts or on elec-troliers by the signposting department of the Automobile club of Southern California on the streets in the business section.

This important work of warning motorists of parking restrictions will take some 30 days to complete. More than 24,000 metal signs will be erected so that the passing motorists will never be more than 60 feet from a sign in the district. The lettering on the signs giving specific instructions regarding parking rules is sufficiently bold to be read at this distance so that an offender will have no alibi should a traffic officer pounce upon him for improper parking.

Drivers of vehicles are given warning on the signs that no parking is permitted between the hours of 4:30 and 6:00 p. m. on the streets signed. Sunday is excepted in this ruling. Parking for 45 minutes between the hours of 7 a. m. and 4:30 p. m. is permitted, according to the signs.

Signs Planned
Eight signs will be placed on the curbing in each of the longer streets.

State Highway Commission Submits Tentative Budget; 3-Cent Gas Tax Now Looms

SACRAMENTO, March 26.—Paving the way for an early agreement on the financing of the state road program, the State Highway commission presented a tentative draft of its proposed budget for the coming two years to Senator Arthur H. Breed, author of the 3-cent gas tax bill, at a conference here this morning.

The budget covers expenditures which the commission proposes to make in highway construction during the biennial period, if the increased gasoline tax is approved. Consent of the three road commissioners: Harvey M. Toy, Nelson Edwards and Louis Everding—to the demand that they submit a budget of their intended expenditures, came unexpectedly. Enactment of the 3-cent gasoline tax was believed by many legislators to have been assured by the commission's concession, as the Senate bloc, which had held out for budgeting of the road expenditures, is expected to withdraw its opposition.

The commission's statement of proposed expenditures was drawn up by State Highway Engineer R. M. Morton, it was learned. Members of the road body said that its contents would not be divulged until the budget was ready for submission to the legislature, which will probably be this afternoon or tomorrow.

Senator Breed, during his conference with the road commissioners this morning, was prepared to consider proposals to allocate the first $20,000,000 in new revenues to new construction and $1,500,000 to the bay shore highway.

Chautauqua Sponsors Plan Meet Tomorrow

Guarantors of Glendale Chautauqua will hold a meeting tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at Central Christian church, according to announcement of the president, J. Mac McMillan. At this meeting the location of the Chautauqua tent will be decided upon and tickets will be distributed for sale. The ticket sale will begin next week.

Costa Rica has a bumper coffee crop and the country is prosperous.

NEW BUICK MODEL FOR SPORT TRIPS

Special Accommodation Is Made for Golf Accessories
In New 'Club' Car

The new and distinctive Buick Country Club Special, with its many attractive features, extra compartment for golf clubs, unusually large storage space in the rear deck and still more space behind the seat, is being featured at the local agency of Tanner & Hall, Ltd., Brand boulevard at Maple street.

The new Buick creation lives up to the slogan of the company putting it out, William Tanner said.
"When better cars are built Buick will build them." The Country Club Special is an example of the progressive spirit of Buick. The golfer with his sticks, the doctor with his case, the lawyer or other professional man with his portfolio, the woman with parcels or sport equipment, the tourists with his luggage, all find the Country Club Special ideal for their many and varied uses, Mr.
Tanner said.

HUPP EIGHT GIVEN DEALER'S PRAISE

Two-Year Preparatory Work
Preceded New Model's Arrival Here

The advent of the Hupmobile Eight to Glendale was preceded by nearly two years of preparatory and development work, H. W.
Swanson, 228 South Brand boulevard, local Hupp dealer, said today. Not only was the highest type of scientific engineering ability called forth in the perfecting of the Hupp Eight, but the quality standards and manufacturing ability of Hupmobile, gained through sixteen years was brought prominently into play.

The new eight is being produced in a new and specially designed plant of its own, dedicated to the processes of finer automobile manufacturing, Mr. Swanson said.
"On a pound for pound basis the Hupmobile Eight is being built and priced more economically than any other comparable car.
A special feature is the new designed crankshaft that permits greater compactness of the engine. A new valve mechanism has been developed, based on aeronautical practice.

Glendale Scouts Will Visit Santa Barbara

Robert E. Johnston, toparch, and George Stombs, chairman of the committee putting on a drive for new members of Glendale Pyramid of Scouts, are planning something unusual for a ceremonial to be staged about the first of May. On Saturday they will lead a caravan of twenty automobiles loaded with Scouts and their wives from Glendale to Santa Barbara, where the Pyramid of Scouts of that city is to have a ceremonial session on Saturday night. The wives of Santa Barbara Scouts will entertain at a theatre party, and at midnight all will sit down to dinner. The prize object of this pilgrimage from Glendale is to learn some new stunts for use at the approaching ceremonial of Glendale Pyramid. Santa Barbara Pyramid has a reputation for doing the unusual, and Glendale is keen to keep up with it. The caravan of autos will leave the Masonic temple on South Brand boulevard Saturday at noon.

CHRYSLER OPENS SECOND YEAR FIT

Local Dealer Sees Record
Business Ahead Of
This Auto Model

"With a year's successful operation behind it, the Chrysler organization starts off on its 1925 program with prospects of a growth that will set a new record for the automotive industry," says Lyman P. Clark, president of the Glendale Motor Car Co., 124 West Colorado street, Maxwell and Chrysler dealers.

"The Chrysler today, after a year's test that has been severe enough to satisfy the most critical automobile owner, stands as one of the leading examples of what an automobile should be. These tests have been made under any and every condition, from the day in, day out use over paved roads to the grinding trial over a thousand mile run on the race track, and no defect has yet developed in the car.

Value Proved
"Owners of Chrysler cars are still finding that they live up to the claims that have been made for them by the manufacturers.

The Chrysler, whether a year old or a month old, is up to the original specifications in every detail, ready to deliver a generous dollar's worth of transportation.
The popularity of the Chrysler,
Mr. Clark says, is shown by the eagerness with which dealers all over the country are seeking the franchise, and the new dealers who are being admitted to the organization are being selected from among the most progressive and reliable men in the industry.

PRODUCTION GAIN FOR 1924 IS LARGE

Big Increase In Number Of Hudson And Essex Cars
Is Reported

Scoring the largest gain in production in the whole automobile industry, the Hudson Motor Car
Co. produced more than 134,000
Hudson and Essex cars in 1924, or an increase of greater than 50 per cent over 1923, according to
P. A. Kelley of the Kelley Motor Co., 816 South Brand boulevard, local distributors for Hudson and Essex cars. Complete figures for 1924 had just become available.
This sensational gain in business was scored, he said, despite a general setback in the industry, and was based jointly on the success of the Essex six-cylinder car and the great wave of public demand for closed cars at moderate prices, which was exactly met by Hudson and Essex coaches. The successful record for 1924 marked the third successive year in which Hudson-Essex has established new production records. In 1922 about 60,000 cars were made—a new record at that time; in 1923 a 50 per cent increase boosted this total to 89,000, and in 1924 another 50 per cent raised this to more than 134,000.

"The strong tendency to enclosed cars since then has carried Hudson-Essex on a wave of ever-increasing business," Mr. Kelley said. "This year found Hudson-Essex business 90 per cent in coaches, with open cars in recent months a rarity. This specialization has so simplified manufacture that both Hudson and Essex coaches are now sold at a lower price than open ones—the only case of the sort on record. In the three years Hudson-Essex has made more than 200,000 coaches."

SCHOOL HOLDS SOLUTION OF TRAFFIC

National Auto Club Reports Strongest Influence Is Possible There

The strongest influence that can be called upon to reduce the automobile traffic accidents of the future is the school, according to the Safety-First bureau of the National Automobile club.

Our present-day civilization demands that a certain portion of the time devoted to the education of the child be spent in the consideration of the hazards of life and limb which are always with us.

One of the slogans which has been adopted with success in the east in campaigns of safety, carried out through the co-operation of the schools, is the familiar triad,
"A. B. C." which is taken as an abbreviation of the warning, "Always Be Careful."

The constant recurrence of this symbol in street car, billboard and other forms of advertising, recalls to the mind of the motorist and pedestrian, the essential qualifications of caution which are the basis of the prevention of accidents.

Successful Drive
The National Automobile club
in co-operation with the San Diego Chamber of Commerce and other civic bodies, recently conducted a most successful drive in the southern city with the aim of reducing the traffic toll exacted by the operation of motor vehicles upon the highways and by-ways of San Diego county.

The success of this campaign was due to a large extent to the whole-hearted co-operation of the teachers and principals of the schools of San Diego and the assistance and approval of the city and county boards of education.

Another campaign of like character is now under way in the city of Sacramento. Arrangements are being made for speakers to visit the various schools, and plans have been adopted for the organization of school traffic units so that the pupils will not only themselves grasp the meaning of safety, but will carry the gospel of safety to the homes and thus contribute to the stirring up of public opinion to force a higher regard for the lives of others.
Legislation is now pending at the state capital.

Arrange Rules For L. A. and Yosemite Meet

This year's Los Angeles-
Camp Curry, Yosemite, economy run, scheduled for May 22 and 23, is to be a strictly stock car event under A. A.
A. rules and regulations governing such contests.
This was the decision reached at a meeting in Los Angeles between Robert T.
Williams of the Yosemite
Park and Curry Co.; Hal Weller and George Stephenson, A. A. A. representatives; J. A. C. Waters, Southern California representative of the Yosemite Park and Curry Co., and local newspaper and publicity men.

While Camp Curry economy runs heretofore have always been run under A. A. A. supervision, they have not been conducted by the complete rules governing strictly stock car events, and have consequently had no official A. A. A. sanction except such as non-stock contests, according to Mr. Waters, run manager for the third consecutive season. As a result of the new decision, therefore, he looks for the 1925 competition to have a nation-wide importance heretofore unequalled.

the same location and soliciting

Mr. Hirzel is now associated in neer Auto Body and Fender Shop.

three years and now becomes his

GAS TAX WILL ELIMINATE HAZARD

Bridge Over San Gabriel To Be Built, Replacing
Old Structure

Gasoline tax funds will be used during the summer of 1925 by the California Highway commission in removing one of the worst traffic hazards on the state highway in Los Angeles county.
Bids were asked today for the construction of a new reinforced concrete bridge across San Gabriel river on the Whittier boulevard to take the place of the present county-built wooden structure, which long ago became inadequate for traffic.

The new bridge will be one of the most modern structures on the state highway system. It will be of heavy construction, reinforced concrete throughout with a clear roadway width of forty feet.
In addition, as a safety measure, six foot sidewalks will be provided on either side for pedestrians.

432 Feet Long
The bridge will be 432 feet long, consisting of eight fifty-four foot spans. Particular care will be taken in building the foundation piers which will go down thirty feet below the bed of the river.

The San Gabriel bridge is one of the important 1925 reconstruction projects to be undertaken by the highway commission in Southern California. The bids will be opened by the state highway engineer, April 13.

The commission today readver-tised for bids for the construction of the San Juan creek bridge in Orange county. They will be opened April 13.
The commission has advertised for bids for the widening, straightening and thickening of 1.9 miles of the state highway from the Santa Barbara city limits through Montecito. The work to be done consists of widening the existing pavement to thirty feet with cement concrete shoulders. The present pavement, which will form the center of the new highway, will be leveled and thickened with asphalt concrete.

Class of Work
Two small sections of highway are not included in the present project, for which bids have been asked, because right-of-way matters.

STRONG RECORD BEHIND COMPANY

Willys-Knight and Overland Cars Are Furthered By Wonderful Leader

"It was just a quarter of a century ago that John N. Willys, head of the Willys-Overland company, then an ambitious and aggressive bicycle dealer, doing more than a half-million dollars worth of business a year, decided to get into the automobile field," said H. H. Murray, head of the Murray Motors Co., Glendale distributors for Willys-Knight and Overland cars. "His kaleidoscopic progress from then on was marked with much hard work and not a little resourcefulness; but he kept growing with the industry until he saw that the real possibilities lay in the direction of manufacturing.

"After the financial debacle of 1907 he obtained control of the Overland company, and since then he has steadily reorganized and developed it into one of the biggest individual factors in the automobile industry, so I am well sold on the men behind the product I have selected."

COMPLETE SURVEY OF TUNNEL IN ATWATER

Plans and Specifications to Be Drawn By Street Department; Vote on Bonds at Coming Election

A survey for a pedestrian tunnel at the intersection of Atwater avenue and Glendale boulevard has been completed by engineers from the Los Angeles street department, according to an announcement from the Los Angeles city hall today. Plans and specifications for the tunnel will be drawn up so that they will be in readiness if bond money for the building of pedestrian bores is voted at the coming election.

The Atwater tunnel has been given precedence over all other tunnel requests by the board of education, according to Robert A. O'Dell, president of the board. A recommendation that the underground passage be installed at the earliest possible moment has been sent to the Los Angeles traffic commission by the school authorities, he said.

He stands squarely for public ownership of power and the Swing-Johnson bill for the Boulder dam.

Owing to the immense area included in district No. 1, equal to all the other districts combined, Randall will travel constantly in the field and would be pleased to see citizens at the Randall headquarters, 321 American Bank building.

'CHARLEY'S AUNT' CLOSSES TONIGHT

Last Chance To See Comedy At Glendale Theatre; Capacity Crowds

"Charlie's Aunt," credited with being the funniest picture ever made, continues to draw tremendous audiences to the Glendale theatre, where it will show for the last two times tonight. The old joking phrase, "louder and funnier," may well be applied to this funnybone-ticking film, which features Syd Chaplin, brother of Charlie Chaplin. The film is "for laughing purposes" from start to finish and capacity houses have fairly howled with glee at this super-comedy all week.

"Charlie's Aunt" probably holds more records for long-distance running on the stage than anything outside of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The farce was written by Brandon Thomas and first produced in England in 1892. The remarkable thing about the play is the fact that it has run continuously for the last thirty-three years and still shows evidence of going strong.

When the film rights were secured by Ideal Films, London, Charlie Chaplin cabled them that in his opinion the logical man to play the famous role of "Charlie's Aunt from Brazil" where the nuts come from" was his brother Sydney, so the Ideal company and Christie studios set about securing Syd Chaplin for the title role.

He played "Charlie's Aunt" on the stage in England and brings to the picture the talent which he has shown for riotous comedy in such motion pictures as "The Pilgrim," "The Galloping Fish," "Her Temporary Husband" and "The Perfect Flapper."

Kirby and DeGage, noted dancers, present a new number, "La Ferruca," in conjunction with "Charlie's Aunt" with Lopez "Castilian Serenaders," as their accompaniment. The costumes are unusually beautiful and the lighting effects are novel. The act, an Orpheum feature booked over the Western Vaudeville Managers' association circuit, is of an excellence in keeping with the picture.

JACKIE COOGAN IN GATEWAY PICTURE

'The Rag Man' Shows Today, Tomorrow, Saturday On Theatre Screen

"The Rag Man" is the best Jackie Coogan offering that Metro-Goldwyn has thus far distributed, and this is said with no disparagement of the other presentations, "A Boy of Flanders," "Long Live the King" and "Little Robinson Crusoe." But "The Rag Man" is the best, or at least makes the most immediate hit because of the abundance of comedy episodes. These are touched up with a sufficiency of thrills and tears to give the story by Willard Mack authentic value.

The audiences follow Jackie's adventures from the time the orphanage burned down till Jackie, as little Tim Kelly, became the senior member of the firm of "Kelly and Ginsberg," the largest

PLAYERS TO TELL STORY OF FAITH

'Manna' Opening Monday At Playhouse Deals With War Hero

The unthinking cruelty of the idly curious who visit hospitals for the maimed under the guise of doing good is searchingly set forth in "Manna," which has its opening performance by the Dobson Players at the Glendale Playhouse, next Monday night for balance of week. The attitude of people who regard soldiers as a sort of sideshow is portrayed in a masterly manner when the woman who is given a name in the play but leaves a deep impression nevertheless, comes on in the first act with her eight-year-old son.

There is rather an uncomfortable lesson for us all in her selfishness and entire lack of consideration for the feelings of others, whom she wounds deeply. Everyone is glad when she is driven out of the hospital ward, almost with violence, by the angry words of the crippled man who objects to being treated like a moth under a microscope.

This incident and these characters are so vividly presented and accurately portrayed that they would stand out in any play. And yet other characterizations are so sharply drawn and other dramatic incidents are presented in such orderly and continuous procession that they are but part of the intricate pattern of "Manna," a mosaic of life.

Story of Faith "Manna," which has a symbolic meaning in the play akin to its original meaning of "Bread From Heaven" is the story of faith triumphant under conditions which would drive many to despair.

Never was there a more hopeful or inspiring message than that which the play sends forth. It is a play of loving, hoping, despairing; of steadfastness and faithfulness; of laughter and tenderness and tears. And each of the thirty characters has at least one unforgettable bit.

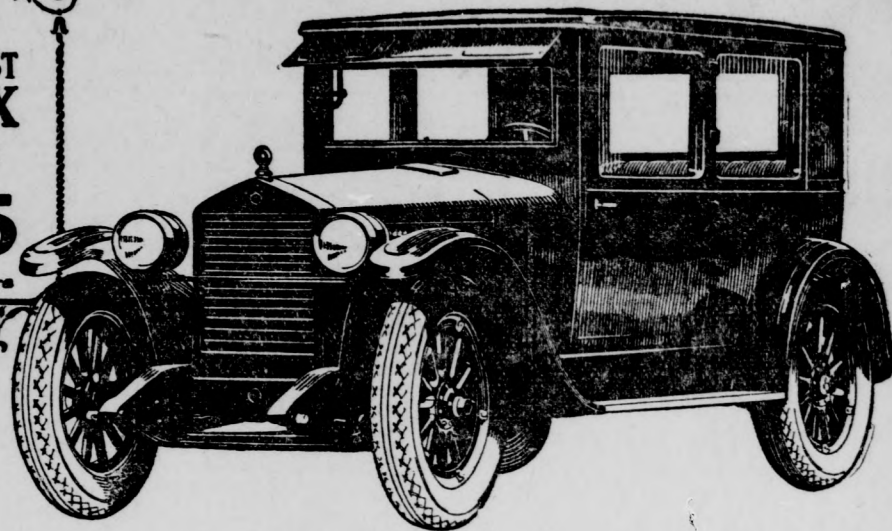

Miss Doris Lloyd, the talented English actress, will add to her fine reputation. It is believed, by her presentation of "Kitty Schneider."

The Playhouse is beginning to stand out, insofar as its location is concerned. Large signs have been erected on Los Feliz road, at Brand and Central and at Central and Broadway, and a string of colored electric lights has been placed across the street in front of the theatre. These landmarks serve to guide the Los Angeles and Hollywood patrons, who are coming in increasing numbers.

NEW OAKLAND CAR FOUR-DOOR SEDAN

Special 5-Passenger Model
Now Showing At Local Dealer's Agency

In line with its established policy, Oakland has brought out a new special five-passenger, four-door sedan, which is now on display at the local showrooms of the John Neuschaefer agency at 420 East Colorado street.

"Possibly no recent step taken by Oakland met with greater approval than the introduction of the Oakland Six Coach," Mr. Neuschaefer said. "Here, indeed, is a fit and worthy running-mate for the coach, however."

Not a single thing has been sacrificed in quality to reach a set price. Such economies as have been effected do not in the least detract from the worth of the special sedan, Mr. Neuschaefer said.

The sedan includes the regular Fisher body with full slat roof and stout hardware frame. From its selected hardwood frame to its Duco finish, the new model is possessed of quality in keeping with that of all other models of Oakland cars, he said.

LECTURE ON WORK IN LEPER COLONY

William M. Danner To Speak
At Methodist Church
On Friday Night

William M. Danner, secretary of the United States branch of the International Leper society, is to be the speaker at 7:30 o'clock Friday night at First Methodist church, at a meeting held under the auspices of Glendale Women's Missionary federation. Mr. Danner, who has visited the well-known leper colonies, has first-hand information on the relief work. He will illustrate his talk with pictures.

Devotionals will be in charge of Dr. Lincoln A. Ferris, pastor of the First Methodist church; Rev. W. E. Edmonds, Glendale Presbyterian church; Rev. Ernest E. Ford, First Baptist church. Mrs. Hesse, president of the federation, will preside.

Special Meeting
This is a special meeting arranged by the federation. Glendale women of the federation have contributed to the leper relief work and are vitally interested in what has been done and in plans for the future.

As Friday night was the only time they could secure Mr. Danner, they arranged a special meeting to which the public is invited. An all-day meeting of the federation will be held in April.

School Holds Secret Of Traffic Accidents

Sacramento calculated to create a state constabulary which shall have as its chief object, the prevention of law violation, and therefore, reduce traffic hazards.

All of the officers of this state force, which will operate under the direction of the Division of Motor Vehicles, must first be trained in a traffic school for a period of from thirty to ninety days. They must be thoroughly versed in the various laws governing the operation of motor vehicles; they must have some mechanical knowledge of the motor car, and they must be prepared to exercise discretion in the enforcement of the law.

This is a step in the right direction. However, no body of men, no matter how competent or how conscientious, can develop public opinion to the extent of the public school. Education, therefore, of the pupils in the school, through the medium of safety talks by their teachers and principals, as well as by individuals from the outside, has been recommended by the Safety Council, conducted recently under the direction of Secretary Hoover.

Campaign Plans
This campaign should not take on merely the character of a spasmodic activity brought to a focus for a single week or day, but should rather be a fundamental principle of the education of the youth of the country.

The motor car is more and more becoming a family necessity and the day is soon coming when every individual will either own or have the use of a motor car, according to predictions of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce made at the last meeting of that body.

It is, therefore, important that these future owners and drivers of motor cars should learn the necessity of safety and caution. It is necessary, furthermore, that they should be educated as to their responsibility to their fellowmen, both in their conduct when at the wheel of a motor car or when walking the streets.

Public Opinion
The development of the motor car industry has been so rapid that the education of the public in regard to the operation of the motor car and the development of legislation dealing with the ownership and use of the motor vehicles, have not kept pace. It is difficult to bring public opinion to bear upon the older drivers, as there is no general meeting place at which the thoughts of "Safety-First" can be brought home such as is offered by the public school.

The campaign of "Safety-First" then, must be directed primarily for the purpose of benefits which shall accrue in the future. Teachers, principals and boards of education should see to it that the children under their care are given a definite amount of instruction in the interests of safety. Then and only then, shall we be building for the safety of the future.

GLENDALE PEOPLE LIKE REO, IS CLAIM

Ray M. Smith, New Owner
Local Agency, Reports
Renewed Interest

Ray M. Smith, who recently purchased the Reo agency in Glendale, and is operating the business under the firm name of the Reo Glendale Motors Co., at 124 S. Orange, reports that Glendale people are showing great interest in the new models of the Reo.

The Reo Motor Car Co., looks upon Glendale as one of its most fertile territories and is expecting the new dealer to make a name for himself from the start, the manufacturers wrote Mr. Smith.

Mr. Smith has had considerable experience in the automobile business, having been for a number of years a Ford dealer in Southern California. He has resided in Glendale for several years at 406 Griswold street where he owns his own home.

Practical Mechanist
Besides his merchandising experience, Mr. Smith is a practical machinist and automobile repair man and will make the Reo Glendale Motors company shop a mecca for all motorists who need assistance in diagnosing and curing their motor's ills.

Bert M. Allison, who has been associated with the Reo Motor Car company for a year and a half will be in charge of the sales department. As Allison has had training in both the passenger and speed-wagon departments, is well qualified to fill this position. He has worked in San Francisco as well as Los Angeles.

Mr. Kilde, a mechanic who was previously employed by the Reo company's Glendale branch, will continue in the same capacity with the new dealer.

Cut Auto Deaths By Enforcing Laws, Plea

and a United States Senator have been hit by automobiles in the business section of the city. The senator was a victim of a hit-and-run driver whose identity has not been discovered.

"One feature of the conference program for the year will be an intensive study of the problem of adequate traffic enforcement," the report said.

"New committees will be appointed by Secretary Hoover to deal with the following:

- "(1) Uniformity of laws and regulations.
- "(2) Enforcement.
- "(3) Causes of accidents.
- "(4) Metropolitan traffic facilities."

Secretary Hoover said that in his opinion two purposes of the 1924 conference have been accomplished. First to focus public opinion on the appalling traffic accident and death rate each year, and second to prepare a comprehensive national program of accident prevention. He recognized the contribution which is being made to accident prevention by the daily press, no national humanitarian movement having ever received finer co-operation from the newspapers, according to Hoover.

Marked Reduction
A marked reduction in the accident death rate in a large number of cities during the last few months of 1924 and in January, 1925, was announced by the conference report. In twenty-eight of sixty-eight cities having a population of 100,000 or more there has been a cut in fatalities, and in seven leading cities the reduction was 34 per cent in fatal auto accidents during January, 1925, compared to the preceding January.

American Railway association figures showed a reduction to 1,957 in the number of grade crossing fatalities for eleven months of 1924, compared to 2,048 for the same period in 1923. The improvement took place in the last half of the year, according to the statement.

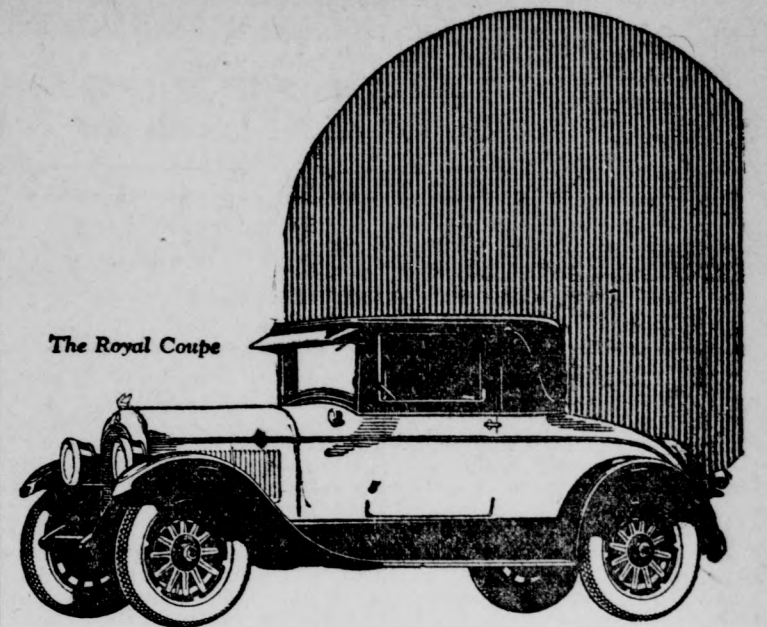

"In those communities where the traffic laws are rigidly enforced there has been a marked reduction in fatalities, indicating that there is a definite relationship between the accident situation and strict enforcement," Hoover said.

Parking Signs To Warn Downtown L. A. Drivers

blocks, and both sides of the streets in the district will be signed. The work is under the direction of Douglas C. Rhodes, field engineer of the Automobile club of Southern California, in charge of the signposting department.

According to Captain Cleveland Heath, head deputy chief of police in charge of traffic, who is assisting in placing the signs, the new warnings will relieve the traffic squad of a great amount of trouble, since motorists can hardly fail to observe and heed the warnings. Many residents of the city are familiar with the new parking ordinance, he pointed out yesterday, but there are thousands of visiting motorists continually driving through the business district who, of course, do not know about the city's parking ordinance. Heretofore when they wanted to do a bit of shopping, they usually got into difficulties by parking at the wrong time, he stated. The new permanent signs placed so near together will do away with violations of the city parking law almost entirely, it is said.

Twelve Months Service Clinches Its Superiorities—

The Chrysler Six has given the motoring world something more than new results.

The car that created a new first-year production record, when more than 32,000 were built in the effort to satisfy the demand in 1924, has been in the hands of owners about one year.

How do these owners feel about the Chrysler Six today? How has the car behaved in actual daily service over a period of months? What is the present position of the Chrysler Six and its effect on the industry?

These are pertinent, sensible questions and any observant and unprejudiced person can answer them for himself.

For it is a notable fact that Chrysler owners who have been driving for months are as enthusiastic about their car as the men who created it. A year-old Chrysler delivers the same results as it did when it first revealed a new conception of performance. It has demonstrated in dramatic tests on road, track and hill its staunchness and stamina as well as its brilliance. But more important than this, it is as ready with its flashing performance after 12 months of steady daily service grind as it was the day it was built.

Naturally the confirmation of the soundness of Chrysler engineering and construction puts the final capstone on the Chrysler position in the industry. Ask Chrysler owners and also men handling other lines of cars what they think of the Chrysler Six. You will find that it is to both the advantages and the competitive handicaps that inevitably fall to the supremely successful in any line of industry.

DARKENED WINDOWS

By CORNELIA KANE RATHBONE

Copyright, D. Appleton & Co. Serialized by Ledger Syndicate

When he came down from his mountain top of self-dedication into the hubbub of the station, he found his uncle's man waiting, according to his instructions, with his suitcase. He had only just to get his ticket and make a rush for the train. As he hurried down the platform, he collided, in his haste, with another belated passenger, a well-set-up, soldierly-looking man, tall and fair and arrogantly handsome. The two were headed for the same car, from which the porter was already withdrawing the plank, when they crashed together, Graham's heel coming heavily down on the other's foot. He had no time to apologize, and sprang aboard with an agonized "Gott in Himmel!" ringing in his ears.

When the train emerged from the interminable darkness of the tunnel, Graham found the late victim of his haste seated in the chair in front of his own. The man was nursing his foot across his knee, and casting wrathful glances up and down the car. Fearing recognition and recrimination, Graham hid guiltily behind his newspaper. He had not had time to open it before, and his eye ran rapidly over the headlines, searching for an account of last night's tragedy. Here it was on the front page. Even in New York multimillionaires were not murdered every day, and such a crime was still a sensation. Haniel Hurst's money could buy him a front place always, living or dead. And, besides, a bad reputation, if it is big enough and had enough, commands blacker headlines than many a great and good one.

"A whole column he's got, the old blackguard!" commented Graham, glancing swiftly down the lines. There were few details. Sergeant Bassett was credited with the discovery of the crime. Neither Evadne's name nor his own, he was thankful to see, had so far been brought into the affair. He skipped over the account of Hurst's place and power in the financial world, to the end of the article, intent on finding out whether the maiden name of his widow was given; but "survived by his wife and one daughter" was all he learned. Doubtless the later editions would have fuller particulars—too full, indeed! He dropped his paper and looked out at the river, leaden and still beneath its dark, rocky bastions; at the pale sky; the misty distance. It was a world as gray as his own thoughts, and he turned away from it to the color and warmth of the car. Of the man in front of him he could see only the top of a smooth blond head rising on a fur-trimmed overcoat which was thrown over the back of his chair. One sleeve of the coat, with its deep, fur cuff, dangled almost at Graham's knee. Caught in the fur was something on which Graham's eyes rested for some moments before his brain, which had roved far afield, registered the impression. Then suddenly he saw. With a start he bent forward, scrutinizing the small object excitedly, holding his breath lest he blow it away.

"The 'damn German' as I live, the 'damn German'!" he muttered. He tore a corner from his newspaper, glanced quickly round to see whether any eye was upon him, and finding the world absorbed in itself, flicked the little glittering object lightly on to the paper and folded it carefully away. It was not only Flint now, he thought triumphantly, who held the clue of a green spangle. Figuratively speaking, Graham was on his feet again. Here was something to be done, in the doing of which he could forget himself. Just what it he meant to do he did not know. Somehow he must keep on the trail of the man ahead; somehow he must run him to earth. The sense of his own ignorance and ineptitude sobered but did not daunt him. Something had been born in him since yesterday—a new spirit of adventure, of unhesitant, impulsive youth. For Evadne he was ready to conquer the world.

Graham had conceived and abandoned a dozen wild, impossible plans when a telegraph boy came down the aisle calling for Mr. Richard Brown. The man in front held up his hand.

"Here you are, I am Mr. Brown," he called.

At the same instant a man in the chair across the aisle jumped to his feet. "That's for me, boy, I'm Mr. Richard Brown," he exclaimed.

The two responses were almost, but not quite, simultaneous.

"It is for me, I tell you. I am expecting a telegram," said the man in front aggressively.

"So am I," insisted the man across the aisle. This second Mr. Brown was an indefinite person of no apparent importance, and the boy, with the flair of the worldly wise, after a glance at the two claimants, handed the telegram to the man in front.

As Mr. Brown began to open the envelope, Graham seized his opportunity, rolled it up, and, rising, thrust it into the rack overhead. This maneuver enabled him to cast a quick glance over the contents of the telegram held unsuspiciously in the other's hand.

There was no signature, instead were three figures—333.

Where, Graham wondered, had he lately seen that combination? Then the answer was flashed to his mind—333 was the number of the house to which Evadne's letter had been addressed—the house under suspicion.

The man in front folded up the telegram and thrust it into his pocket. "It was for me as I thought," he said to the Mr. Brown across the aisle. He then felt to the rack above him, and it was evident to Graham that he intended to follow the instructions of 333; and return to New York at once. But, at what station would he leave the train? That was the question which troubled Graham; for wherever it was, there he was determined to follow, and it behooved him to be prepared.

As he had not provided himself with a timetable, he slipped away in search of the conductor from whom he learned that this being a Saturday train, it stopped at both Tarrytown and Ossining; that they were due at Tarrytown in five minutes; and that there would be a wait there of about half an hour before the arrival of the train for New York. Armed with this information, he hurried back and slipped into his seat unnoticed by Mr. Brown of the chair, who was hurriedly gathering together his impedimenta, preparatory to leaving the train.

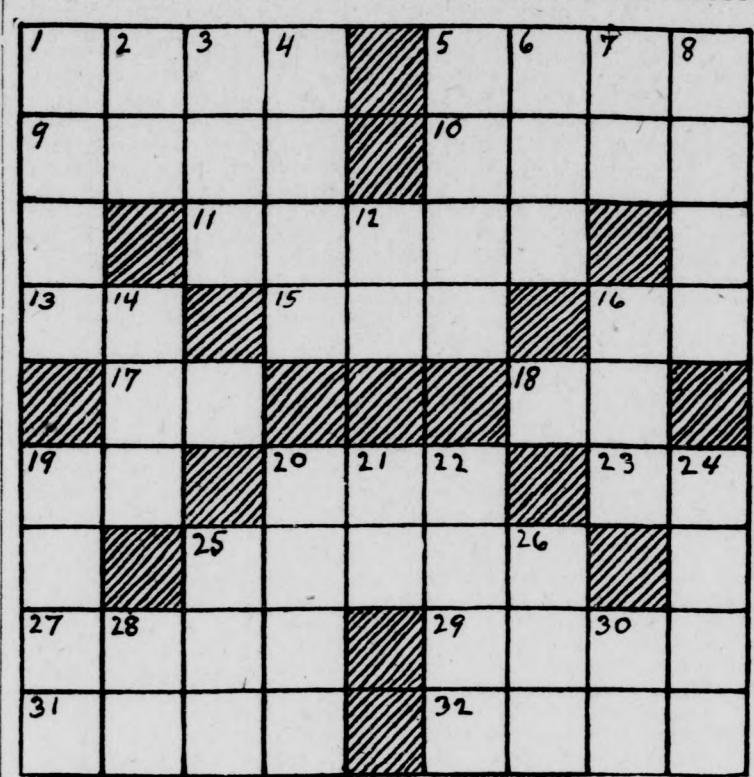

Graham thought quickly. It was imperative, of course, that Mr. Brown should not discover that he was being followed; but how was he to obliterate himself during a half hour's wait in a small, empty station? Mr. Brown was on his feet. Graham felt his eyes travel over him carelessly, then linger an instant, recognizing, perhaps, the brute who had trod so forcefully, and without apology, on his elegantly shod foot.

It was the moment for instant decision. Graham made it. As the train moved out of Tarrytown station he might have been seen still at his window watching the platform and the vanishing figure of Mr. Brown. When at last he turned, he noticed that the chair of the other Mr. Brown was empty, too.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Copyright, 1925, By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"Have you a clean handkerchief for me this morning, Nurse Jane?" asked Uncle Wiggily of the muskrat lady housekeeper, as he opened the front door of the hollow stump bungalow.

"A clean handkerchief? Why, certainly," she answered. "Perhaps you had better take two," she went on, as she hurried upstairs and came down with a box of freshly-ironed squares of linen. "Two handkerchiefs—how extravagant-like!" laughed the bunny. "One is enough."

"No," insisted Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "While you are hopping along looking for an adventure, some one may pass you in an automobile and splash mud on your pink, twinkling nose. You will want to wipe the mud off your nose with your handkerchief and that will get it dirty. I mean the handkerchief will be all mud. You can use that one for wiping off splashes with and keep the extra clean handkerchief in your pocket."

A good idea—I never thought of that," said Uncle Wiggily, with a laugh. So he got the two handkerchiefs in his pocket and hopped over the fields and through the woods to seek an adventure.

He had not gone very far from his hollow stump bungalow before he heard a voice saying: "Come on now! Don't be afraid. You can do it if you try!" "Oh, but I am afraid!" said another voice, a sort of baby voice. "I might fall and break my nice new tail!"

"You mustn't be so scary like!" laughed the first voice. "Come on—jump!" "I must see who this is," murmured the bunny gentleman to himself. "It can't be any of the bad chaps—they would not speak as kindly and gently as do these voices."

The bunny peered through the branches and up in a tree he saw two squirrels. One was Johnnie Bushytail. The other was a new, little squirrel girl.

"Hello, Johnnie!" called Uncle Wiggily. "Who is that with you?" "This is my new little sister, and her name is Skippy," answered Johnnie. "Only she doesn't skip very well," he went on with a laugh. "Mother told me to take Skippy out in the tree branches to teach her to jump and leap and skip as Brother Billie and I do. But Skippy is afraid."

"What's she afraid of?" asked the bunny, as the little girl squirrel peeped out from the fringe of her thick tail.

"I'm—now—I'm scared that I'll fall down through the tree branches and break my tail," chattered Skippy. "I don't want to fall. If Johnnie would get down on the ground and hold up his paws to catch me, if I should fall—then I'd jump from one branch to the other the way he wants me to."

"Yes, but I can't get down on the ground to catch you and stay up here by you at the same time to teach you to jump," said Johnnie.

"Well, then, I'm not going to learn to jump—ever!" said Skippy.

"Oh, but you must! All squirrels must learn to jump!" chattered Johnnie. "You'll have to do bigger jumps than that before you grow up," and he pointed from one limb to the other—really not far at all.

"No, I'm not going to jump!" said Skippy, and she seemed ready to cry.

"Wait a minute! I have it! I know what to do!" suddenly exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "How would it be, Skippy, if I stood on the ground under you and spread out my handkerchief, like a net in a circus tent, to catch you in case you fell? Would you jump then?"

"Yes," said Skippy, "I would, thank you."

"Then I'll hold my handkerchief below you," said the bunny. "I have two handkerchiefs, as it happens." He took the extra one and spread it out in his paws below the tree, as firemen spread the life net. Looking down, Skippy saw that she wouldn't be hurt if she fell and then she jumped, as Johnnie wanted her to. From one tree branch to the other she leaped, though her little heart beat very fast.

"There you are! That's the way to do it!" cried Johnnie, and he clapped his paws. But, as he did so, he forgot to hold fast to the branch on which he was sitting, and down he fell!

"Wait a minute! I have it! I know what to do!" suddenly exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "How would it be, Skippy, if I stood on the ground under you and spread out my handkerchief, like a net in a circus tent, to catch you in case you fell? Would you jump then?"

"Yes," said Skippy, "I would, thank you."

"Then I'll hold my handkerchief below you," said the bunny. "I have two handkerchiefs, as it happens." He took the extra one and spread it out in his paws below the tree, as firemen spread the life net. Looking down, Skippy saw that she wouldn't be hurt if she fell and then she jumped, as Johnnie wanted her to. From one tree branch to the other she leaped, though her little heart beat very fast.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

TUBERCULOSIS

"Dear Doctor: Ten months ago, I had a hemorrhage. One doctor told me my lungs were O. K. I weighed only 106 and I am five feet four inches tall. Well, I went to another M. D. and he made all tests and stated my right lung was wheezy, and I must have an X-Ray. The X-Ray showed tuberculosis. "He didn't advise a change of climate, but said to increase my diet, to give up my housework, to practice living out of doors, etc. I did these and also sent for your pamphlets on Tuberculosis and Gaining, and started right in. I took a quart of milk a day, cod liver oil and stuffed myself until I felt miserable. In six weeks, I started gaining, and now, Dr. Lulu, I weigh 125 and am trying for 135, which is my correct weight. For years, I weighed less than 112. Never drank milk before; I sure do believe in milk and rest now. "Last week I had another X-Ray taken and my doctor stated that with more rest and proper feeding and fresh air, I'll be O. K. in six months. "I sure am with you on counting calories. I know the little pamphlet by heart. And if some of the skinnies want to gain, they can, if they calm themselves and stuff up! I always used up my strength in nervous energy, but I am calm now. I never get excited. "People meet me on the streets and tell me how well I look, how fat I am, etc. Me for you.—Mrs. H."

You were very wise to go to another doctor. The first one was evidently not competent. Unfortunately, the title of "Doctor" doesn't always indicate a regular doctor, or that he is a competent one if he is a real M. D. Those in the medical profession vary in competence just as those in other professions.

It is not always necessary to change climates, as you have demonstrated. With rest and proper food in sufficient amounts and fresh air constantly, tuberculosis patients can and do get well in all sorts of climates. It is apparently just as painful to eat more than you want than to eat less than you want, but you have shown the wisdom on continuing even though you did feel stuffed. Those who specialize in tuberculosis do not advise food in such great quantities as they used to, but the patients must have enough over the maintenance diet to gain on, and that means considerable eating and much more than the patient has been eating.

I notice you did not start to gain until six weeks after you began. That showed courage. Tuberculosis is more apt to attack those underweight, especially the younger people. It has been shown experimentally with animals that the lack of vitamins and an insufficient diet do weaken the lungs and all of the tissues, and tuberculosis is more apt to attack those so weakened.

Those of you who want the little pamphlet on Tuberculosis, (we are getting lots of good reports from it), may have it by sending a self-addressed and stamped envelope with your request. This also includes a list of books on the subject, written for the layman.

Miss J.—Please have a thorough physical examination right away. You have some condition that needs immediate attention. If you do not know any reliable physicians in your locality, ring up your County Medical Society and they will give you a list.

Tomorrow—Answers to Mothers.

My Dear Followers—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to the care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or print clearly. We cannot be responsible for me to diagnose for you or to answer your personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions which are answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget to send you the information I have offered.

YOUTH AND GRAY HAIR

Some women go gray very young, early in their twenties. If there is a definite cause, such as illness, the cure for the disease is the cure for the hair, which will probably turn back to its natural shade as soon as the woman is well again. If it is neglect of the fundamental laws of hair health, such as a scalp free of dandruff, ordinary hair cleanliness, brushing, singeing and that sort of thing, then good treatment, a tonic, massage, such efforts will bring back some of the lost color.

But sometimes gray hair is inherited. I don't think anything will help then, but the dangerous and never to be recommended hair dye treatment. If gray hair cannot be cured, make the most of it as a beauty feature. It is beautiful and it is so unusual, that an otherwise nondescript girl may make herself startlingly good looking, by playing up her white hair and the contrast with her young face.

If gray hair can't be helped, do all you can, by careful shampooing and rinsing with bluing water now and then, to make it beautifully gray. Take extra good care of your complexion, and keep off wrinkles for as many years as you can. For white hair sets off a young face by making it look younger but once the youth begins to go, the white hair will stamp you as middle-aged before you are. Take good care of your eyebrows and eyelashes, these won't go gray, they should be darkened if possible, by using oil to treat them.

White hair and pink cheeks is an unusual and lovely combination. Make it yours, even though you use rouge now and then. Dress when possible in a quaint, almost eighteenth century manner (you

Glendale Couple To Tour Europe For Year

Mr. and Mrs. H. Blumenthal, who recently sold their attractive home at 722 North Central avenue, are anticipating a year of travel in Europe. They expect to leave Glendale this week for New York and will take the steamship "America" for London, where they will visit relatives at Mr. Blumenthal's boyhood home. They will continue the trip to Paris, and later will tour Italy, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland, Germany and Austria. Upon their return in the early autumn they will stop in Montreal and come down the St. Lawrence river. Two months or more will be spent in New York and other points in the east before they return to Glendale.

They are planning the erection of a new home next year and have acquired a site on Ben Lomond in the Campbell tract near the foothills of North Glendale. Mr. Blumenthal is the Pacific coast representative for a large eastern firm that produces woolen fabrics. He has been suffering from impaired health for the past year and looked upon his return from this tour to have fully recovered and be able to again resume his responsibilities in business.

Record Air Delivery Reported By Jackson

A record in time for air mail delivery in Glendale was reported today by D. Ripley Jackson, postmaster. A letter mailed from Boston, March 21, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, was received by Mrs. M. E. Dennis, at 124 West Park avenue, this city, March 24, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The letter came over air mail by way of San Francisco.

Club Hostess

Wednesday Bridge club members were entertained yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. A. Endicott at 423 West Broadway. Luncheon was served at a table made attractive with the use of California poppies. Bridge was played during the afternoon, with prizes awarded to Mrs. Frank W. Banham, first; Mrs. T. J. Keleher, second, and Mrs. G. H. Bigelow, consolation. Mrs. Hazelton was a guest. Members present were: Mesdames Frank W. Banham, T. J. Keleher, G. H. Bigelow, L. C. W. Jones, Robert Alexander, W. W. Jones, George Kimball of Los Angeles, J. E. McClellan and Will Pursell and Miss Eva Brehme.

All Day Meeting

Attend Dance

A delegation from Glendale Rebekah lodge will attend the informal dance, given by Odd Fellows of Southern California Saturday night at the auditorium of the Ambassador hotel, Los Angeles.

Attend Dance

Ruth D.: If you cannot have a scalp specialist give you treatments for this tendency to grey hairs, try a stimulating tonic such as the pilocarpine so often mentioned in the "Clats." You can tint the grey hairs by using henna, which need not affect the natural shade of your hair at all, if you do not leave it on your hair longer than from five to ten minutes.

T. Y.: As you are about 20 pounds underweight, it is natural that you would not look well. Take cod liver oil from now until you get into warm weather, or until you make up all the needed number of pounds. You will also find by taking the oil that your skin will become clear and attain a pinkish tint and it is possible also that your hair will improve because of the added vitality. Get plenty of fresh air to help you digest the oil, and if you have no time to get it during the day, take it at night by sleeping outdoors, or by having all your windows open wide.

Tomorrow: Hats and Heads

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Noon Wedding

The wedding of Miss Angie J. Wilson of 502 1/2 North Isabel street, and Alexander Clark Burke of Pasadena, took place at high noon yesterday, Wednesday, March 25, 1925, at Glendale Presbyterian church. Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony in the presence of immediate relatives. The bride wore a russet ensemble suit designed with silk and woolen materials with a silk spring hat to match. She wore a corsage bouquet of roses. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the Harriet Mae tearoom for the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Johnson of 320 Pioneer drive; Misses Alice and Ada Yoxall of Osborne, Kansas. Mrs. Johnson is an aunt of the bride and the Misses Yoxall are cousins. An interesting feature was the fact that the wedding cake was decorated with an ornament made of silk flowers, used fifty years ago on the wedding cake of the bride's aunt, the late Mrs. J. L. McDonnell of Orange, Ill. The bride was also a namesake of her aunt. Mr. and Mrs. Burke will be at home to their friends after April 30 at 504 Mountain View avenue, Pasadena.

Vapors Check a Cold Overnight

There are many ways to treat a cold but only one DIRECT way—with vapors that can be inhaled. Vapors penetrate immediately into every corner of the air passages and lungs, soothing and healing with every breath. Vicks is so remarkably successful in treating cold troubles because it acts like "a vapor lamp in salve form." When rubbed over throat and chest the body heat releases vapors of Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine. At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster. This double, direct action often checks the worst cold overnight.

Many women prefer Terry Cloth capes to use over their bathing suits on the beach, but knitted beach capes are equally as pretty. To make a generously long cape, buy eight balls of lustre wool and one pair each of number four and one-half, number five, number six, and number seven amber needles. Start at top of the cape, using the number four and one-half needles, and cast on 268 stitches. Row One: Knit 2, * P 2 sts. together, twice, yarn over, K 1, yarn over, K 1, yarn over, K 1, yarn over, P 2 together, twice, repeat from *, ending K 2 stitches plain. Row Two: Purl across. Row Three: Knit across. Row Four: Purl across. Repeat these four rows for all the work, working eight inches down from the top, then changing to the number five needles and working eight inches more, then changing to the number six needles and working ten inches, and finally changing to the number seven needles and working 12 inches, ending with first row of pattern. Knit four rows plain, and bind off.

Border and Collar: With the number four and one-half needles, cast on ten sts., K 32 inches plain. Now start on collar, using the number four and one-half needles, and cast on 268 stitches. ### We Guarantee to Stop Falling Hair in 3 Weeks!

Or money refunded!

November 2, 1924, Nampa, Idaho

When I began to use Van Es hair cream I was practically bald. Used switches ten years to conceal baldness.

Applied Van Es daily thirteen months. My hair has uniformly increased in thickness and is now ten inches long. Discarded all false hair last July. When dressed, my natural hair appears abundant as when I wore switches.

The toothbrush removes foreign matter from the teeth and gums and prevents premature decay. Comparable with the toothbrush, Van Es as used as directed, restores hair to normal action, restores hair lost through disease and promotes vigorous growth of the hair.

Yours truly,

OAKS STRONG IN ALL DEPARTMENTS

Manager Howard Optimistic About Season's Outcome As Men Train

By IVAN C. HOWARD
Manager of the Oakland Pacific Coast League Club
OAKLAND, March 26.—The Oaks will be strengthened in practically all departments when the Pacific Coast league season opens on April 7. I figure that "Hub" Pruet, acquired from the St. Louis Americans, will alone more than make up for the loss of "Duster" Mails and then we have two other pitchers, Delaney, right hander, and Fowler, left hander, obtained from the St. Louis Nationals in the Mails deal, who are showing great promise.

Flowers, the sensational young shortstop included in the Mails deal, has been troubled by an injured finger, but his place has been filled in fine style by Jimmy Reese, who has been showing some of the flashiest fielding seen around here in a long time. Reese has been getting his hits with great regularity and he will be a hard man to keep off the team.

First Baseman Guisto, who has been a victim of hard luck in the way of injuries in the past two years, says he is in the best possible shape and looks for a big year.

"Buzz" Arlett Good
Brubaker and McCarran are battling for the second base job and that position will be well taken care of, no matter who wins the regular berth. Making at third, is living up to all advance notices as a hitter and fielder. Big "Buzz" Arlett is driving the ball to all corners of the lot.

Cooper is showing his old time speed in the field and on bases after being laid up with a broken leg for many weeks.
In addition Oakland has several fast youngsters, including Jack Fenton, substitute first sacker, who has been pelted the ball. The Oaks will have plenty of reserve strength this season and I believe we will give them all a battle for the pennant.

LOCAL DE MOLAYS BEAT BEACH LADS

Neel's Spectacular Shooting Overcomes Visitors As Glendale Wins, 36-17

Members of the Glendale DeMolay basketball team are feeling elated today over the defeat administered last night to the Long Beach DeMolay casaba tossers. The game was played at the Harvard High school gym and the final score was: Glendale, 36; Long Beach, 17. The score at half time was: Glendale, 20; Long Beach, 8.

The overwhelming defeat wipes out the stain of two previous defeats handed Glendale by the beach city lads. The rivalry was so keen last night that two players were put off the floor for fighting, and several other mix-ups were averted by prompt action by Referee Eugene Wolfe.

Neel, playing right forward for the local team, was the outstanding star of the game, accounting for 23 points. Although closely guarded at all times, he shot from various angles of the court, his shots going true. The low score of the visitors was due to the efficient guarding of Denny and McIver.

The lineups:
Glendale (36) Long Beach (17)
Neel (23) R.F. Eaton (6)
Wimmer (4) L.F. Lichtwiler (1)
Carver (3) C. Lee (4)
Denny (2) R.G. Belt (2)
McIver (1) L.G. Davis (1)
Substitutions: (1) for Lichtwiler; Cowan for Foster; Wilson (3) for Lee.

Score By Quarters
Glendale 8 12 8 8—36
Long Beach 2 6 6 3—17

WAY OUT WEST

PRODUCED BY ED WHEELAN

EPISODE THREE "THE WARNING"

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.
CLEAR WATER, Fla., March 26.—An epidemic of holdouts is lessening the chance of the Brooklyn club in the coming National league campaign.

If the Robins could go north from Florida well trained, the team would have a real kick to it but if it does not get away, united and in condition and is held back because of the recalcitrants, the players will lose a very good opportunity to fish for the world series money.

This Brooklyn team is a real ball club if it gets its troubles ironed out. It is a club which has drawn heavily on its playing resources in the past but one which has a reserve left. It is a club which has been lifted from time to time out of a seeming slough by the mental energy of a man whose flow of good spirits has been as ceaseless as the tides.

It seems hardly necessary to say that that man is Hubert Robinson. After spending most of the winter in the hospital "Uncle Robbie" is back again, a little the worse for his poundage, which perhaps is no handicap, but with the same hearty voice and uplifting manner that has been so inspiring to the players on the Brooklyn team in seasons past.

"I would not know what to do without troubles," said Robbie to the writer. "Every time spring rolls around Old Man Trouble is on deck as usual."
Robbie came to Clear Water with anticipations of being in the thick of the fight this year but no sooner had he arrived than he found his pitching staff, upon which he had counted most heavily, in a state of revolt.

"Daddy" Vance, voted the most valuable player to his team of any in the league, agreed to the terms of his contract and then balked. He finally signed after further concessions were made to him. That is called "ironing out" the contract. That means that a ball player has seized the opportunity to put the screws to a club.

Burleigh Grimes, another pitcher upon whom much was centered has been acting up over the amount of salary to be paid him. A difference of $2000 has existed between Grimes and the club for two years. Grimes agreed to refer the question to Judge Landis who looked the papers over and told Grimes he had no case. But Grimes has been holding out for the extra dough again this year.

Doak is another star pitcher who was expected to be a sure go with the Brooklyn this year. Robbie took him and helped him earn many useful pennies when St. Louis let him go as being through as a big leaguer. But Doak got bitten by the real estate bug down here where he spent the winter and he has made up his mind that he can get bigger returns for himself by selling real estate than he can by throwing the baseball.

If these three fine pitchers had been in line from the start, if they had been properly worked out and if Brooklyn, as otherwise constituted could have entered the fight primed for the all-summer ruction, the team could have been a serious contender from the jump.

The Brooklyn have a young outfielder from the Far West by the name of Cox who has been attracting a lot of attention down here. American League managers who have seen him in action speak of him in the highest terms.
Cox is a fine, aspiring ball player and with Brown, Cox and Wheat in the outfield the Brooklyn may wield a lusty stick against opposing pitchers. Brown, who was taken by the Brooklyn last year and played good ball for the team, has been playing better ball this spring. He was the most promising outfielder in the south in 1924 when he was with Indianapolis and he is about 10 per cent better now than he was last season. Wheat's record speaks for itself.

On the infield the Brooklyn have Fornier, Johnston, Mitchell and Stock—four clouters. These four are not such great shakes in fielding but when they are

MILKMEEN DEFEAT OILERS, 34 TO 12

Gas Dispensers Shut Out In First Half; Talbert And Avery Score

By A. S. HALL
Of The Evening News Staff.
Spectators at the Calla Lily-Standard Oil game last night saw almost a shutout for the Oilers, when the milkmen rode rough shod over the gasoline dispensers. The Oilers were held scoreless for the first half, but Stoff broke the spell in the early part of the second half by making two baskets in quick succession. The game ended: Calla Lily, 34; Standard Oil, 12.

One thing the spectators did see was the unorthodox shooting of the milkmen forwards, Talbert and Avery. In the first half this pair of shooting stars was finding the hoops from all parts of the court. Only one basket was made by the milkmen in the first half from within their zone, and that was when Talbert caught a rebound on a free throw that missed, and dropped the casaba inside the hoop.

Run Up Markers
Talbert gathered two baskets and Avery one in the opening period. Three baskets apiece for Talbert and Avery were added in the second period. The count was even again in the third period, each making two baskets, and they repeated with two each in the final stanza. Stoff was high point man for the losers, getting eight points, two baskets in the third quarter, and two more in the last frame. Isenhouer found the hoop in the third period, and Schenck was lucky in the fourth quarter.

The score at half was 18 to 0. Everybody had visions of a shut-out for the Oilers when the second half started, but Stoff surprised himself and everybody else by locating the hoop. A moment later he shot another goal. Talbert accounted for 18 points, and Avery was responsible for the other 16 markers.

The lineups:
Calla Lily (34) Standard Oil (12)
Talbert (18) R.F. Stoff (8)
Avery (16) L.F. Ketchum (2)
Kerns (2) C. Isenhouer (2)
Rams (1) R.G. Bryant (2)
Randall (1) L.G. Schenck (2)
Substitutions: Berryman for Bryant.

Score By Quarters
Calla Lily 1 2 3 4 Tl.
Standard Oil 0 6 8 8—34

Boxing NOTES

AT NEW YORK—Sid Terris, New York, won decision over Lew Paluso, Denver, ten rounds.

AT OAKLAND—Jimmy Delaney, St. Paul light heavyweight, won technical K.O. over Fred Sullivan of Oakland, fourth round.

AT SAN FRANCISCO—Frankie Farren and Eddie White, San Francisco lightweights, boxed ten furious rounds, Farren winning the decision.

EXHIBITION GAME

LOS ANGELES, March 26.—With hopes of evening up the series between the Cubs and Vernon, Manager Bill Eissick ordered Ed Bryan and Clyde Barfoot to warm up for mound duty in the fourth meeting of the two clubs at Washington park here this afternoon. Bill Eissick told Elmer Jacobs, Kaufman and Jones to warm up for his squad.

hitting they can afford to boot one occasionally.

The Brooklyn catchers are fit and sleek. The team's infield reserve strength is good with High and Tierney. The team is not a speedy lot like the Pittsburghs but it is a hitting outfit much like the Cardinals and it may be a better fielding team than St. Louis.

Of the kids, Cantrell, a pitcher picked up from Fort Worth, has shown that he is a comer and Hollingsworth, who was with New Orleans in 1924, may be passed along to the northwest as still needing another year in the minors before he is ready.

LAWRENCE PERRY SAYS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.
NEW YORK, March 26.—Track enthusiasts will file to the first annual southwestern relay races with the keenest sort of interest.

The success of these games which will be held at Houston, Texas, under the sponsorship of Rice Institute—John W. Helmsmann, the athletic director being the moving spirit in the project—will depend upon the way in which members of the conference get back of the scheme.

Hearty co-operation in the way of entrance of athletes and in attendance will put this meet over and cause it to stand among the important track and field events of the country.

The writer realizes that it is a pretty tough job to get a relay meet started but the need has been apparent in this section and it was clear that some one had to make the start. So Rice has undertaken the task.

In the way of resources there is first a very fine Rice spirit, which was significantly emphasized on the football field last fall and second there is the city of Houston, with its 200,000 population, with a superb climate for early training.

Rice has a coking quarter mile track and a 220 yard straight away. Drake in the middle west has established the relay idea in that section and in the far south Georgia Tech has gone over the top in spirited fashion.

The track coach at Rice is John P. Nicholson who coached track at Sewanee for seven years and before that was a famous University of Missouri athlete—a champion hurdler and high jumper.

Members of the Southwestern conference will help the whole athletic system of their section by rallying with hearty good will to the support of this project. For some time now Yale alumni in the middle west have been engaged in the task of interesting students in the mid-western secondary schools in Yale as a place of higher education. No eastern university has a better organization for this work which is conducted with the greater interest issue.

More than one fine athlete has come to New Haven from this section as a result of work done by the western alumni. And, now they demand a return for their Alma Mater. Specifically they request of Yale that she send her eleven to the middle west to a point in our new Olympic center to meet a representative middle western eleven in the fall of 1926.

In the meantime there seems to be a trend as between Michigan and Princeton that may result in the arrangement of a long term of home-and-home games.

PICKS GIANTS TO WIN ONCE MORE

New York Has Improved In Pitching, Walsh Says; Pittsburgh Second

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.
NEW YORK, March 26.—With malice toward none and charity for all, the writer names the following as his idea, probably unimportant, of how the National league clubs will finish in October:

- 1—NEW YORK.
- 2—PITTSBURGH.
- 3—CHICAGO.
- 4—CINCINNATI.
- 5—BROOKLYN.
- 6—ST. LOUIS.
- 7—BOSTON.
- 8—PHILADELPHIA.

The Giants improved in pitching, improved in the outfield and otherwise just as good as ever they were, which was and is plenty, should come home on the bit. McGraw has a ball club that carries the youth and experience thing to a blend of such nice discrimination that only an unforeseen upheaval seems likely to keep him out of his fifth straight pennant.

The logical contenders, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Cincinnati and Brooklyn, have not improved sufficiently, if at all, to cause McGraw undue misgivings. The Cubs, it was pleased to think, had improved themselves fifty per cent by the Pirates trade, but Maraville's injury has just about levelled that. He will be out for at least two months and the Cubs' defense and general morale will suffer accordingly. They lack a punch in the outfield, anyhow. Therefore, third place is the best I can give them.

Broke Up Infield
Whatever prompted Bill McKee to make the trade in question is not of intelligible record. In the face of things he broke up the best infield in baseball, regardless of how he may rearrange his material, the defense is certain to suffer without the attack being greatly benefitted. If the Pirates go any higher than second place, the rest of the world is in egregious error.

The Reds are weak in outfield and catching strength, as the fellow said. They have only four of the former and two of the latter, all good, but not enough. The rest of the team, barring first base, is fool proof—pitching and hitting excellent and the infield well upholstered with reserves of major league ability. McInnis may be obtained from the Braves before Rube Bressler at first base has his legs shot away from under him.

For a team that ran the Giants right into the wire last year, the Dodgers might seem to be rated pretty far off the pace in this instance. But the club is aging and men like Fournier, Wheat, Stock and Johnston are in the position of being on the border line. They might or might not stand up through any given campaign. The pitching, notably Grimes and Vance, is of the best, but the left side of the infield will not bear a searching scrutiny. This also applies to the Cardinals, who, however, will not have the benefit of the Dodgers' pitching, if any at all. Plenty of Cardinal hits and runs will be wasted on the desert air, as of yore.

The Braves and Phillies are attempting to build for the future, and as such, cannot be taken seriously. I deem that the Braves got slightly the better of the shuffle for young men, and their pitching figures to be more consistent than anything the Phillies can show. Therefore, the latter wins the celluloid fire extinguisher.

To Night's CAGE GAMES

Tonight's game will give the Legion another chance to break into the win column when they play the Christian churchmen at the Harvard High school gym. It will be the last game of the fourth week of play in the second round. During the first round the Legion won from the churchmen, 29 to 16, the only win the Legion casaba tossers have chalked up.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP BY FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.
NEW YORK, March 26.—It will be pretty hard to steam up Jack Renault for a Dempsey match. And this is too bad for the former mounted cop is a colorful boxer and always provides a lot of action when in the ring.

But Renault lacks the very thing that the crowd demands, the good old wallop and no amount of energy can atone for that lack.
If Renault were endowed with a whole lot of skill such as Tommy Gibbons possesses he would draw a crowd to see him fight Dempsey if only because of curiosity to see whether or not the champion could overcome this skill.

But while Renault is clever he is not a marvel in the way of boxing ability. In Monday night's bout in Newark against Romero, Renault easily won on points but he never came anywhere near to stowing the rough Chilean away for the count, while at the same time, especially in the last round, Romero shook him up once or twice with the final wallop.

The big thrill in New York was the fight made by Willie Barmon against Jack Green, a hard-jawed mulatto from Providence. Green has a number of knockouts to his credit and himself had never been sent to the floor for a short count. And he has met the best of the welters from Walker down.

But Barmon sent him fast to sleep after two minutes of the first round had elapsed. Coming into his man in his usual aggressive fashion, thinking of nothing but sloughing the New Yorker, Jack ran into a right hand wallop to the jaw that sent him back to the ropes.

In a moment Barmon was all over him and Green flopped to the floor, out cold. Maybe when Mickey gets here he will reconsider his promise to meet Barmon next month. At least under terms of reasonable figure.

If Tex Rickard draws down a jail sentence in that film case in Jersey the boxing game in New York and vicinity is due for a powerful jolt. But recovery will be rapid.
With Rickard temporarily out of the way the men who are associated with him will stick some man such as Frank Flounoy into his place and with the benefit of Tex's advice, even if not his presence, things will proceed as per schedule.

EXPECT STATEMENT

LOS ANGELES, March 26.—A statement was expected to be forthcoming today from either Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion, or his manager, Jack Kearns, on the action of James F. Dougherty, manager of George Godfrey, negro battler, and regarded by many as a logical contender in the heavyweight division, in wiring a challenge to the New York boxing commission for bouts with Harry Wills and Tommy Gibbons, especially Wills and another later with Gibbons.

Battling Your Way Into Town

It was a glorious trip. The setting sun proclaims the day about done.

And now the battle starts. It will be dark long before you reach home.

What a jam! You barely crawl along. You stop. You start. You creep ahead a few yards. Again you jam on the brakes.

Cars! Cars! Cars! Endlessly in front of you, endlessly behind you.

The driver just ahead stops suddenly. You barely miss bumping into his car.

On-coming cars honk an angry warning if you attempt to turn out. The road is too narrow.

Intersecting highways also are jammed with traffic. At every intersection again you wait, doggedly clutching the wheel in silent wrath.

At last, after literally fighting your way over the road, you swing into your own driveway.

Yes, it was a glorious trip, but—

TEAPOT OIL LEASE BRANDED ILLEGAL

Government Counsel Closes Arguments To Annul Sinclair Right

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 26.—Owen J. Roberts, special oil counsel, today closed the government's argument in the equity suit to break the Sinclair lease on the Teapot dome naval petroleum reserve.

Roberts reiterated the charges in the government's bill of complaint that the lease was illegal and constituted as a result of fraud and conspiracy between a government officer and promoter of the Mammoth Oil Co. He declared also that there was fraudulent use of quit-claim deeds in securing the lease, naming in this connection John C. Shaffer, Denver and Chicago newspaper publisher.

Roberts went into the extent and scope of the act of June 4, 1920, affecting the leasing of naval oil reserves, scathingly attacking the defense interpretation of this act, which he said would "have the oil ripped out of the ground at once" when the act made no such direction.

Roberts quoted statutes to uphold the government's contention that lack of competitive bidding made the Sinclair lease illegal. The hearing was brought to a close here today just before noon amid an exciting exchange of heated words between Owen J. Roberts, government counsel, and representatives of the Sinclair million dollar legal array. The exchange came because of reference by Roberts to ex-Secretary of Navy Denby, which defense claimed, "was outside the record."

Roberts paid little attention in his rebuttal to the Continental Trading Co. bonds, but, in answer declared it was the government's theory that H. C. Sinclair was cognizant of alleged fraud and conspiracy participated in by the Canadian company.

Judge Kennedy announced that he would take the case under advisement, but gave no hint as to when a decision would be rendered.

Jazz Girl On Trial For Murder Again Faints

cused Nils A. Blume by peremptory challenge. He hopes that jury might be secured today and the actual trial of the case started before the court after recess was dashed when the court after recess of Assistant District Attorney Harmon Skillin excused all witnesses until tomorrow.

The first prospective juror drawn from the box today was Mrs. Julia Ott, mother of two grown children. She expressed her belief that she could act fairly and impartially to both sides.

A new theory of the defense in behalf of the girl was injected into the case today by Walter McGovern, associate counsel, who conducted questioning of Mrs. Ott. "Let us assume," he said to Mrs. Ott, "that you believe from the evidence presented in this case that Dorothy Ellington is not guilty of the crime charged against her, but on the other hand you believed that she had a knowledge of the crime which she is withholding, in other words protecting or concealing some one else, would you permit this to prejudice you against this defendant?" Mrs. Ott said it would not but McGovern questioned her at great length on this point.

Gasoline Bill Author In Change Of Policy

members of the State Highway commission today, Governor Richardson issued a statement expressing full confidence in their integrity, business ability and judgment, and denouncing attempts to have money for new roads allocated to special routes as proposed by Senator J. M. Inman and others.

The governor declared allocation of the funds to specific routes "put state highway construction on a pork barrel basis and make it a matter of political trades."

His statement: "The commission reports money for new highway construction is practically exhausted and if the road program is to be continued during the next two years, the Legislature must provide the funds. If California builds no new roads during the next two years the responsibility will rest upon the members of the present Legislature."

Governor's Warning
 "Money provided for new roads should not be allocated to special routes in specific amounts, as that would put state highway construction on a 'pork barrel' basis, would make it a matter of political trades, and would probably lead to dictation by the Legislature even as to the type of construction and other engineering problems, and the highway commission and its engineer have proved their knowledge and ability to expend wisely the money provided for highway construction. They have studied state road problems and have personal information regarding every state highway in the state. They are experts in road matters. If highway construction is to be placed on the low basis of barter and trade, then the highway department might as well be disbanded and state highway construction discontinued."

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
 For Internal and News Service

NEW YORK, March 26.—Both the speculative and the investment markets were dull and comparatively inactive today. Industrial and railroad stocks continued to move slightly higher in the early trading, but stocks picked up at comparatively lower prices in the early part of the week were brought to market in good volume today and their selling put a handicap on an extended rise in prices.

Chicago Great Western in the preferred, Rock Island, New Haven, Erie and Northern Pacific were in this group.

Wabash stocks were the most active of the railroad shares and advanced to above 65. Heavy selling around the noon hour brought the price down to around 63. Atchison, New York Central and the dividend railroad shares made further improvement, but encountered considerable selling later in the day.

Pools in the high-priced industrial stocks were a little more aggressive and marked up prices of a number of stocks. American Can, Stewart-Warner, General Electric and other industrial leaders.

The rise in Wabash stocks following the announcement of the dividend declaration on the preferred "A" stock also provided a good stimulus for the market and all stocks moved upward briskly in this period, factor behind the demand for that stock.

Heavy selling broke out in the stock market near the close of the session today and not only wiped out all of the advances scored by industrial leaders in the latest rally, but also sent some of the most active industrials to new low levels for the year.

Selling was concentrated on Baldwin Locomotive, General Electric, American Can and other high-priced stocks which, because of bearish activities in the past two weeks, had been driven to low price levels and rebounded from 4 to 15 points in the last two days. A spirited rally around the noon period, following the announcement of the granting of a 5 per cent dividend to the holders of preferred stock on the Wabash Railroad Co., resulted in good gains in prices of both industrial and railroad shares, the former including the oils and motors.

Selling broke out in the last hour with the advance in call money rates from 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 per cent. Tightening of the money market was due to the necessity for preparation for month-end settlements and without special assistance, Baldwin dropped steadily from 11 1/2 to 11 1/4, which is 2 points lower than the previous low of the year. United States Steel lost all of its recent advance and got back to 117. American Can declined from 17 1/2 to 16 1/2; General Motors from 70 1/2 to 68 1/2.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 26.—Grains moved back and forth today, but ran into important selling near the finish, closing lower. Wheat, 1 1/2@ 1 3/4 lower; corn, irregular, off 1 1/2c; oats, down 1 1/4c. Provisions closed higher.

ST. LOUIS, March 26.—The Purina Mills has purchased the 700,000-bushel grain elevator of J. H. Teasdale & Co. for approximately $5,000,000.

L. A. EXCHANGE

LOS ANGELES, March 26.—Julian preferred, Western Chemicals, Union Associated and the public utilities led the trading at the opening session of the Los Angeles stock exchange. The oil list as a whole was only fairly active at the morning's call. Western Chemicals sold actively at 15 1/2. In the mines North Star was the one active trader, at 4 1/2.

FLAX REPORT

MINNEAPOLIS, March 26.—Flax, March, $2.88 1/2; April, $2.88 1/2; May, $2.89 1/2; July, $2.89 1/2; track, $2.87 1/2@2.89 1/2; arrival, $2.87 1/2@2.89 1/2.

MORE CASH IS SENT STORM VICTIMS

$275 Is Added To $132.25
Sent Earlier; Need Is Urgent For Relief

The sum of $275 was sent to the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce today by The Glendale Evening News to be added to the tornado relief fund for victims in the storm-swept area of Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee. This amount, together with $132.25 sent earlier, makes a total of $407.25 the people of Glendale have contributed to the fund.

These donations were received by The Glendale Evening News for forwarding to the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, designated at the official agency for relief fund work in Southern California. Relative to the early contributions, the following letter has been received by The Glendale Evening News from the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce:

"We acknowledge receipt of the contributions of $132.25 from the residents of Glendale sent through The Glendale Evening News toward the relief of the cyclone sufferers in the middle western states. This support of such a worthy cause is appreciated and we assure the people of Glendale that we shall see that the money will be put where it will do the most good."

Need Is Urgent

Another donation from a patient of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital was brought to the office of The Glendale Evening News by Elder B. W. Munson. The donation is from Mrs. George Briggs, who contributes $10 to the aid of the tornado victims. Frank H. Olmsted helps to swell the total with his check for $25.

The need for funds is urgent in the storm-stricken area, and persons who have not sent in their check are asked to mail it to The Glendale Evening News, 139 South Brand boulevard, at once, in order that the money can be forwarded to Los Angeles and sent to provide food, clothing and medicine for victims of the tornado. Checks for the fund should be plainly marked "For Tornado Relief Fund."

PROGRAM BY OPTIMISTS PLEASES

Glendale Members in Charge
Of Meeting At Burbank
Today Noon

Members of Glendale Optimist club were guests of the newly-formed Burbank club today at noon when an elaborate program of entertainment was staged by the Glendale club under the direction of A. H. Voelker, program chairman.

The Glendale Optimists gathered at the Masonic temple at 11:30 o'clock and went to Burbank in a body by automobile. At the Stone Inn, Burbank, the local club took charge of affairs, entering the hall singing "How Do You Do, Burbank," in unison.

Dr. J. J. Brown, past president of the Glendale club, opened the program with a recitation of the Optimist creed. This was followed by the introduction of members of both clubs. "Principles and Ideals of the Optimist Club" formed the topic of an address by Dr. J. J. Brown, vice-president of the Glendale club. Hanson, member of the Glendale club, gave Swedish monologues.

Quartet songs
Selection by the Optimist quartet composed of Dr. R. C. Logan, Leslie E. Russell, Arthur H. Voelker and Dr. J. J. Brown, preceded the awarding of a silver trophy as an attendance prize. The prize proved to be a small tin cup concealed within a large silver loving cup.

Fred Roberts baffled members of the Burbank club when he managed by sleight-of-hand tricks to win his own gold watch in a drawing contest. Proceeds went to the big-brother fund of the Burbank club. Dr. C. R. Lusby, newly-elected president of the Glendale Optimists, headed the local delegation today.

Members of the Burbank club were unanimous in the expressions of satisfaction at the manner in which the Glendale Optimists conducted the meeting. They declared the Glendale members had the liveliest Optimist club in Southern California and invited them to return to Burbank in the near future.
